Eisenhower, Nixon Ballot Ideas Differ

Ike Aims Vote Plea At GOP, Nixon Asks Democrats' Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon have different ideas on how to elect a Republican Congress.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday if all the registered Republicans went out to vote there would be no trouble about electing GOP candidates. He mentioned Maine, a normally Republican state.

Nixon is campaigning in California, where party registrations give the Democrats a 7-5 advantage. He has been calling on Democrats to forget party lines and support Republicans in order to continue what he calls the best six years in the country's history.

More Realistic

Political strategists said Nixon's tactics of trying to enlist Democratic support appear more realistic in view of party registration strength in California and several other vital states.

Registered Democrats outnumbered Republicans by about 900,000 in California in 1956 and have been topping Republicans 5-1 in new registrations since then.

Registrations are seldom a deciding factor in elections, as Californians proved by rolling up a 600,000 margin for Eisenhower two years ago.

60,000 Vote Lead

In last month's Maine election, which Eisenhower cited as a specific example, Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie polled 172,704 votes to 111,522 collected by GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne in the senatorial race.

Since 1956 figures showed 250,734 Republicans and 103,418 Democrats, the supposition was that a great many Republicans who went to the polls in Maine didn't vote that party's ticket when they got there.

Might Be In Trouble

If the balloting trend should follow registration lines in next month's elections, Republicans might be in trouble in states such as New York, Arizona, Delaware, New Mexico, Nevada, Maryland and West Virginia. All of these have Senate seats at stake and in all of them Democratic registration has outstripped that of the Republicans.

In the once-Republican stronghold of Pennsylvania, where a new senator will be elected, Democrats have shown a recent upsurge. The GOP led by about 400,000 registrations in the state in 1956 but an estimated 60 per cent of new registrants this year listed their party as Democratic.

Auto Mishap Injures Four

T.B., Md. (AP) — Four servicemen were injured, three seriously, in the collision of two autos on Maryland 5 at this Prince Georges community early today.

Police identified the injured as Airman Ronald C. Richter, 20, and Richard E. Schnelkoff, 18, both attached to the Patuxent Naval Air Station, and Airman James L. Nordan, 28, and Frederick A. Saldin, 18, of Andrews Air Force Base.

Andrews, Nordan and Saldin were in serious condition at the Andrews AFB Hospital. Schnelkoff was in good condition at the Patuxent station hospital.

Police said Richters' car veered over the center line and rammed head on into the car driven by Nordan.

New Internal Revenue Head Hopes To Simplify Tax Law

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forty-year-old lawyer and tax expert, Alvin Latham, has been named to head the new Internal Revenue Service, a position which he has held since 1954. Latham will withdraw from the law firm of Latham and Watkins, with which he has been associated for 25 years, and as soon as he can close out his personal affairs he will go to Washington. His appointment is subject to confirmation by the Senate.

He will succeed Russell C. Harrison, a Rhode Island accountant, who is retiring to private life.

Gets Cool Reception:

U. S. Studies New Russ A-Ban Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was reported cool today to the Soviet proposal that foreign ministers — not ambassadors — meet to seek agreement on ending nuclear weapons tests. But the proposal was promised careful study.

The Soviet proposal was made Wednesday in notes to the U.S. and British embassies in Moscow. The three governments had agreed earlier to negotiate for a nuclear test suspension in Geneva Oct. 31 but the expectation had been that they would be represented by ambassadors. This country had designated James J. Wadsworth, one of its U.N. ambassadors, to head the U.S. delegation.

Report Soviet Tests

The Soviet Union dispatched the notes only a day after the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission reported detection of two new Soviet nuclear tests. These ended the much-publicized Soviet voluntary test suspension, and raised some question concerning the present Soviet attitude toward the Oct. 31 talks.

Both this country and Britain let it be known, however, that they were ready to go ahead if the Soviet Union halted testing by Oct. 31.

The Soviet Union professed a desire to proceed, but it was not immediately clear what effect their newest proposal might have.

Want Early Agreement

A Moscow broadcast said a quick and universal end of nuclear testing is important to all mankind and added: "For this reason the Soviet government hopes that the parties to the conference will bend every effort to come to terms on, and sign, an appropriate agreement on the earlier possible date."

The Soviet move is expected to be discussed with Britain before a final decision is made on acceptance or rejection. This may take a week or so.

The initial reaction of some U.S. officials was that much detailed work remains to be done before a test ban can be agreed upon, and this work could better be carried on by special ambassadors than by foreign ministers.

Nationalists Rap Dulles' Peace Plan

Misgivings Caused Over 'Compromise' With Reds Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles has sent President Chiang Kai-shek a message designed to assure him the United States is standing by its basic policies on Formosa and Nationalist China.

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — High altitude B-57 American jet bombers have arrived in Formosa to bolster U.S. striking power in the war-threatened Formosa Strait, it was disclosed today.

United Press International Correspondent Charles Smith reported the arrival of the bombers from an air base somewhere in Formosa.

The B-57s, able to strike at almost any important military target in China, greatly strengthen the U.S. air arm in the Formosa area, now dependent largely on the U.S. 7th Fleet and its 500 or more planes.

The United States also was flying in 10 or more C-119 Flying Boxcar cargo planes from Japan to help break the Communist stranglehold on the Quemoy islands.

Misgivings Caused By Dulles Proposal

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A Chinese Nationalist official said today Secretary of State Dulles has created misgivings that the United States might compromise Nationalist rights.

Dulles indicated at a news conference in Washington Tuesday that the United States would be willing to negotiate over the offshore islands if the Chinese Communists would stop shelling the Quemoy group. President Chiang Kai-shek and other Nationalist leaders have hotly rejected Dulles' suggestions that Nationalist forces on the islands be reduced if a cease-fire could be arranged.

The responsible Nationalist official, who declined to be identified, said Dulles had created misgivings that the United States would fail to honor its pledge. Washington promised not to prejudice Nationalist rights at the talks of the U.S. and Red Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw, he said.

Impact On Free World

"The American pledge to its ally, the Republic of China, carried a tremendous impact in the free world, which is now watching to see that it is carried out," the official said.

The Nationalist Foreign Ministry declined immediate comment on President Eisenhower's statements at his news conference Wednesday. Officials were studying a transcript of the conference.

The President agreed with Dulles that Chiang should not have concentrated 100,000 troops on the offshore islands.

Discuss School Plan

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and his advisers hope today to put the final polish on the state's plan to reopen some public schools closed in the integration controversy.

The plan may be made public either late today or tomorrow.

Demos Too Confident?

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Differences persist today among California's Big Three Republicans, but they agree on one thing. They say the Democrats are growing overconfident.

Vice President Nixon, Sen. William F. Knowland and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, in their first joint appearance of the California election campaign, each challenged what Knight termed the Democrats' cocksure attitude.

But the get-together at a money-raising Republican rally Wednesday night also served to point up a lapse in harmony within GOP ranks.

Nixon endorsed the entire GOP state ticket.

So did Knowland. He mentioned

Help Offered For Private School Plan

Justice Department Asserts Little Rock Scheme Won't Work

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Little Rock's private school corporation reported today offers of money and emergency classrooms are pouring in for its new, last-ditch plan to keep the schools white.

The plan for privately supported and privately housed schools apparently would leave Negroes with no high schools and would be staffed by retired teachers.

Won't Work

But Justice Department officials said the plan was another "scheme" that simply won't work. The officials told United Press International in Washington it would be the people of Little Rock, rather than the courts, that would reject the plan because it would mean the end of free public education which has become the foundation of the American way of life.

The prohibitive cost also would be a major stumbling block, the Justice Department spokesmen said.

$5,000 Contribution

Dr. T. J. Roney, president of the corporation, said in Little Rock he had picked up one contribution of $5,000 for the plan but he declined to estimate the total. His secretary reported at least three Baptist churches had been volunteered for classrooms, as well as a carpenter's union hall, suites in a life insurance building, "quite a few" rumpus rooms and "large living room."

Little Rock's four public high schools have been closed a month and 410 of the normal enrollment of 3,698 students in them have transferred to school in other localities.

Pope Regains Use Of Voice

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Pius XII, apparently fully recovered from a slight loss of voice, held a special audience today and spoke a full 15 minutes.

The pontiff granted an audience to 100 members of the Religious Congregation of the Institute of the Oratory of St. Filippo Neri. Vatican sources said the 82-year-old pontiff's brief ailment was a temporary loss of voice due to fatigue.

Moon's Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — For the second day in a row the Air Force unveiled what is believed to be the first stage of the next U.S. moon rocket for a ground test.

The modified Thor missile puffed out smoke off and on for three hours Wednesday after its service tower was rolled clear. Just as in a similar test Tuesday, no rocket engine ignition was seen, however.

It apparently was a static test of the missile to prepare it for launching.

The next opportune time to launch a lunar probe will come Oct. 12 and three days thereafter when the moon is closest to earth.

Ship Sloshes On Sea Jaunt

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The motorship Caravel is en route to Honduras today with a mess sloshing about its hold.

The ship was loaded with shipments of pancake flour and pulp paper products Tuesday. After a welder worked on some fuel lines, a load of diesel oil was pumped aboard. It's not quite clear what happened, but the oil wound up in the hold with the flour and paper.

Capt. Ivan Jones deferred cleanup until the ship reached Honduras and set out across the Gulf with his cargo getting messier by the minute.

'Meg' Saves Small Child From Death

BRUGES, Belgium (UPI) — Britain's Princess Margaret swept a small boy from the path of an onrushing automobile and then leaped to safety herself today in a narrow brush with death.

The Princess, on a third day of a visit to Belgium, was walking with her party through the market square of this ancient city when a small European car drove straight at them.

Margaret swept up a youngster directly in the auto's path. She then jumped aside herself as the car braked sharply and came to a stop after grazing her skirt.

A woman was driving. A British detective accompanying Margaret, Chief Inspector Frederick Crocker, sprang forward to make sure the Princess was all right.

She smiled her thanks to Crocker, assured Belgian police at the scene that she was unharmed and then walked on, continuing her sight-seeing tour of this medieval city.

The fact that tragedy came so close to striking down the pretty young Princess dampened the spirits of everyone in the party with the apparent exception of Margaret herself.

Firm Balks At Any New Pact Offers

Some Union Locals Jump Gun; Parleys Slated To Continue

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Vice President Louis Seaton said today, "The strike is on at General Motors." His comment came as thousands of GM's 250,000 United Auto Workers members were walking off the job at GM plants across the nation.

General Motors said the strike was almost 100 per cent within 30 minutes.

Seaton, tired after nearly 19 hours of bargaining since Wednesday morning, told newsmen, "We have no intention of adding anything to our offer in the final hour before the official strike deadline" — 10 o'clock Detroit time (EST).

Seaton, leader of the GM bargaining team added: "We see no necessity for any new offer when we've already matched the Ford-Chrysler offers which the union said was good for the union and good for the country."

Some Jump Gun

UAW President Walter Reuther conceded that there were many reports of GM workers jumping the gun and walking out. He said it would be difficult to halt the strike machinery now.

"We are not asking anything beyond the Ford pattern," he said. "But there are some special problems the General Motors workers have—problems that were settled at Ford and Chrysler in years past," he said.

He cited these as wage inequities and local grievances involving working conditions at GM's 126 plants in 71 cities.

Reuther and Seaton, who resumed negotiations just 45 minutes before the strike deadline, said they intended to bargain through the morning and would not interrupt the talks when the strike hour officially came.

Chrysler, Ford Settled

Chrysler and Ford have already settled on new three-year contracts with the UAW.

The UAW has some 250,000 members at GM. Their walkout would be joined by 20,000 members of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) who also work for General Motors.

The Chrysler agreement included a three-year pact, similar in most details to the agreement Ford and the UAW worked out Sept. 17 after a seven-hour strike affecting 98,000 Ford workers. Chrysler has 75,000 UAW members.

The International Electrical Workers, with 20,000 members in GM plants, also went on strike with the UAW today.

Rails Report Income Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Association of American Railroads reported Wednesday that estimated net income of the nation's major railroads during the first eight months of this year was more than 41 per cent below the comparable period of 1957. Income dropped 197 million dollars from 475 million in 1957 to 278 million this year, the association said.

Estimated net income of the railroads in August totaled seven million dollars compared with 80 million dollars for the same months last year.

End To Formosa Crisis Said Near

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The former U.S. 7th Fleet commander, Vice Adm. Wallace M. Beakley, said today he believed a satisfactory solution would soon end the Formosa crisis.

He said he based his optimism on the slackening of the artillery barrage on the Quemoy and the successful running of the Communist blockade.

Making the trip with them, in another car, was James Shelton, a bachelor.

The baby was put in the Shelton car, because it had a better heater. The two vehicles later became separated during the trip.

The Williams car pushed on to Lakeview, thinking it was trailing Shelton. But Shelton for a time held back, thinking he was ahead. Finally, he drove on to Lakeview and found the child's parents. The baby was rushed into an incubator and was given special treatment.

Williams came as a miner.

Algeria Gives Big Welcome To de Gaulle

French Premier Due To Spell Out Plans For Troubled Section

ALGIERS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle returned to Algeria today to inspect troops and deliver a policy statement. He is expected to spell out at least some of his plans for this troubled North African territory.

He was given a big welcome, though scattered hit-and-run incidents of sabotage and terrorism were staged by nationalist rebels in the countryside overnight.

He planned to start his Algerian tour with an inspection of troops in the Moroccan frontier area.

This is the fourth visit of the 67-year-old World War II hero to Algeria since he assumed the premiership June 1.

De Gaulle gave no hint of a new policy for Algeria in his first speech at Tiarat. He spoke only in general terms.

However, it was clear that he is not accepting rebel demands for independence.

He is delivering a policy statement at Constantine Friday.

The mixed peoples of Algeria—French, Arabs and Berbers—waited with mixed emotions for clarification of his intentions toward the territory, officially regarded in Paris as part of France.

They had contributed heavily (about 30-1) to the landslide endorsement Sunday of De Gaulle's new constitution. The Fifth French Republic, with the strongest executive branch the nation has known for three quarters of a century, will be born under the new charter next Sunday.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP) — Canadian Defense Minister G. Randolph Pearkes says Canada can do nothing about unidentified submarines prowling outside her Atlantic territorial waters.

The submarines probably are Soviet but, Pearkes said, "the high seas are open to anyone."

None of the undersea craft reported lurking off Newfoundland has been positively identified, he said.

Pressmen's 'Meeting'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington's two afternoon newspapers were forced to skip their first editions today when their pressmen walked out to attend a "continuous" union meeting.

The union members, seeking higher pay in a new contract, failed to report to work at the Evening Star and the Daily News.

Two-Month-Old Child Dies; Unable To Stand Car Trip

LAKEVIEW, Ore. (AP) — Little Craig Williams died Wednesday after being separated three days from his parents on a long auto mobile trip across five states.

Death came, said a doctor, because the 2-month-old child failed to respond to treatment for a condition caused by premature birth. But the doctor said that the frail, weak child also had been unable to withstand the effects of the long trip.

The trip began in Slick Rock, Colo., when the infants' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Williams, set off for Lakeview.

Hoffa's Job Legal Status Questioned

Teamsters' Head,
Union Monitors Due
For Battle In Court

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Battle lines were drawn today for an early courtroom showdown between Teamsters' boss James R. Hoffa and the monitors named to clean out corruption in his big union.

Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts was expected to set a hearing date soon for arguments on whether Hoffa legally holds his $50,000-a-year job.

Hoffa's representative on the "watchdog" panel—monitor L. N. D. Wells Jr.—Wednesday attacked the monitors' majority for suggesting a compromise decree allowing Hoffa to take office may be invalid.

Union To Follow Line

The union seemed sure to follow the line laid down by Wells in urging Letts to rule his court decree, which also established the three-man board of monitors, to check on Hoffa's regime, was lawful.

Monitor chairman Martin F. O'Donoghue and member Godfrey P. Schmidt questioned whether the agreement last winter which resulted in creation of the monitors, and the end of a suit challenging Hoffa's election was valid since the general membership of the 1,500,000-member union was not consulted.

In Two Weeks

Letts was expected to hold a hearing on the majority request in about two weeks.

Wells' dissent said the formal agreement which ended the suit of 13 rank-and-file Teamsters against Hoffa's taking office had wide press, radio and television coverage. In addition, he said, a summary of Letts' decree in the case was printed in the union magazine.

He said not a single Teamsters member has come forward since the decree to ask that it be changed.

Serbian Mine Blast Kills 10

BELGRADE (UPI)—An explosion in a Serbian coal mine killed 10 miners and trapped 100 of their fellow workers below ground, it was announced here today.

Officials said the explosion took place Wednesday at Pobjava in the Bulgarian border area of western Serbia.

"There was no immediate indication of the condition of the trapped men nor their position within the mine. The announcement said the explosion occurred just as shifts at the mine were changing. The official announcement said a boiler exploded but gave no further details.

Presley Sets Social Whirl In Germany

FRIEDBERG, Germany (UPI)—Pvt. Elvis Presley said today he received "mountains" of letters from German girls and that he planned a busy social life here.

Presley arrived in Germany Wednesday without guitar and was brought before the press today by his commanding officer and top sergeant.

He said he hadn't met any German girls yet, "but I heard a lot of rumors back at Ford Hood."

Newsman pressed him about the nature of the rumors but he remained a gentleman under the cautioning glances of Army brass and said: "I can't answer that question."

Presley, here as a tank driver, told newsmen, "In Germany I want to do as the Germans do—I'll probably rent a Volkswagen bus sometime."

He explained he would need the space in a small bus for his friends "of both sexes."

His new top sergeant, Edward Mackney, of 30 Torisdale Rd., Mechanicsburg, Pa., also came in for questioning at the hour-long news conference.

"Presley looks to me like a clean-cut American soldier," Mackney said. "He is under more pressure than the other soldiers because everyone looks at him, but I'm sure he'll do a fine job." Despite strict Army precautions, more than 50 Presley fans sneaked into the barracks. Army officials were at a loss to explain how this happened but speculated some of the girls had climbed over the double wire fence at the back of the vast barracks area.

Noah Webster's 200th Birthdate Being Observed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Library of Congress is celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of the nation's most famous spell-caster—Noah Webster.

Webster was born Oct. 16, 1758. By the time he died in 1843 the phrase "Webster says" ended any argument over how to spell a word in these United States.

He wrote the first edition of his spelling book in 1783.

The Library of Congress is making its bow to the great spell-caster with a prominent display of first editions of his spelling book, dictionaries and related works.

Sub-Normal Temperature Due In U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau forecast today below normal temperatures for most of the nation east of the Continental Divide during the next 30 days.

It said exceptions would be normal temperatures in New England and in south Atlantic Coastal states. Above normal temperatures on the West Coast were indicated.

The bureau's 30-day outlook: "The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for October calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over most of the nation east of the Continental Divide except for near to slightly above normal in New England and along the south Atlantic Coast. Greatest departures are indicated over the Central Plains. Above normal temperatures are predicted for West Coast states and near normal in the intermountain area.

"Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over the eastern third of the nation and also in the west Gulf states. Subnormal amounts are predicted west of the Continental Divide and in the Northern Plains. In unspecified areas near normal precipitation is in prospect."

U. N. Warned Of Red Plans For Conquest

Cuban Delegate Says
Russia May Feel Time
Ripe To Make Move

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Cuba warned today Russia and its Communist allies may have decided to "embark on the conquest of the free world" through outbreaks of aggression in various parts of the globe.

Cuban Ambassador Emilio Nuñez-Portuondo, noted for his fiery attacks on Communism, issued the warning in a speech prepared for delivery to the United Nations General Assembly.

Asks Emergency Fund

He proposed the United Nations create "an emergency fund for the maintenance of peace," financed voluntarily by the major powers, for use by the secretary general in dealing with crisis situations.

The Cuban diplomat said delegates thought that after the emergency assembly session on the Middle East in August there would be "conditions of relative peace in the world over an appreciable period of time."

Cites Aggression

"But what actually happened was that the meeting was no sooner over than, as if by sinister design of minds cynical of the rules of international law and of the human race itself, there were outbreaks of aggression in other parts of the globe, especially in the Far East, which brought this dangerous situation forcibly to our attention."

"For public opinion is puzzled as to whether the rulers of the aggressor powers, heedless of what their own people may think, have decided to embark on the conquest of the free world on the mistaken assumption that this is the most favorable time for the attempt..."

Formosa Debate Found Confusing

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP News Analyst

The American public — to say nothing of the rest of the free world — must be getting more and more confused as the debate over Formosa proceeds along its fog-bound course.

First, Secretary of State Dulles tells the American public that if a dependable cease-fire could be achieved in the Formosa Strait, it would be foolish for Chiang Kai-shek to keep so many troops on offshore United States, as the President's islands hugging the China mainland, Chiang has an estimated 100,000 there now.

President Eisenhower follows this up by saying that if there is a cease-fire, there will be an opportunity to "negotiate in good faith."

The President denies Dulles' remarks indicate appeasement. And he warns that the United States cannot retreat before force without suffering for it.

What is retreat? What is appeasement?

According to Webster's, appeasement is the act of appeasing and to appease means "to reduce to a state of peace, to pacify, often by satisfying demands, hence to make quiet or calm."

A retreat, says Webster's, is "the act of retiring or withdrawing from what is dangerous or disagreeable."

It seems safe to assume Secretary Dulles' remarks indicated the United States would not be averse to a situation in which it was committed to the defense of the Formosa Strait and the western Pacific positions.

To this, the President adds the thought that if a "BIG IF"—the aggressor powers, heedless of what their own people may think, have decided to embark on the conquest of the free world on the mistaken assumption that this is the most favorable time for the attempt...

Is this a U.S. attempt to withdraw from a position which is dangerous or disagreeable? Does it mean that pouring American

Strike Hits Passenger, Cargo Ships

NEW YORK (AP)—Talks have broken off between striking union deck officers and American flag ship operators, affecting passenger and dry cargo vessels in ports from New England to the Gulf Coast.

Contract negotiations recessed indefinitely Wednesday in the dispute involving 20 steamship firms and the 1,300-member Masters, Mates and Pilots Union. There was no indication when they would be resumed.

About 40 ships already have been idled by the walkout. The old contract between the union and the employer group, the American Merchant Marine Institute, expired at midnight Tuesday.

The disagreements are over vacation, pension and welfare benefits. Wages are not involved.

What would be done with Chiang Kai-shek?

Chiang must be wondering too.

West Virginia Cites Loss On Highway Jobs

Out-of-State Firms Urged To Purchase Needs In Section

By CARTER B. McDAVID
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A high state official today estimated that the "absolute minimum" of possible losses for the next three years to West Virginia from road contracts awarded to out-of-state contractors at $19,000,000.

K. Wayne Swiger, executive assistant to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, said the loss more than likely would be much higher than that. He said the figure was based on an estimate that out-of-state contractors would get 20 percent of the contracts awarded in the next three years.

Swiger said, provided that money is available, that the State Road Commission will be capable of letting $289,500,000 in contracts for the next three years.

Because of the small number of West Virginia contractors able to carry on several road building contracts at the same time, about one out of five contracts under normal circumstances would go to out-of-state contractors. This would amount to "a minimum" of nearly $53,000,000, Swiger said.

More Sub-contracting
However, he said the commission was studying plans for further expanding a program whereby more West Virginia contractors are allowed to sub-contract on large projects.

Swiger explained that the loss estimate was figured on the basis of insurance, business, financing, state taxes and sale of road building equipment to be lost if the "foreign" contractors' business is handled in another state, as is usually the case.

For instance, he said, if an out-of-state contractor were to buy liability and equipment insurance inside West Virginia, the Mountain State would receive some $2,676,000 in additional circulating money the next three years.

Swiger added that if other normal contracting business was done in West Virginia the state would realize in circulating money for the same period $15,633,000 in road equipment sales, $500,000 in financing of equipment purchases and $117,541 in receipts from West Virginia taxes.

Most Buying at Home
However, the majority of these contractors do most of their business in their own states, thereby depriving West Virginia of the money, Swiger said.

He said his report was prepared for a committee named earlier this year to try and work out ways of keeping more money spent on road building projects by out-of-state contractors circulating in West Virginia.

At present, Swiger said out-of-state contractors already awarded state road building contracts are being asked to do as much of their business as possible inside West Virginia.

If the companies do not heed the request, Swiger said there was a possibility the Legislature would be asked to enact laws specifying that an out-of-state contractor spend a portion of its "program" inside the state. However, he said the constitutionality of such legislation must first be ascertained.

Urban Plans Advocated By Seven Mayors

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of seven mayors, including William G. Meyer of Fairmont, W. Va., conferred with federal officials Wednesday in an effort to encourage additional funds for urban renewal programs next year.

The group asked administration leaders to recommend to Congress a new $5-million-dollar program. They said the administration officials who heard their plea promised to consider their request but gave no commitments.

The mayors, representing the American Municipal Assn. Committee on Urban Renewal, met with Howard Pyle, deputy assistant to the President, Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole and acting Budget Director Roger W. Jones.

The delegation issued a statement attacking the administration for what the mayors called lack of enthusiasm for the urban renewal program.

There was $4 million dollars available for use in the program at the end of the fiscal year on June 30, President Eisenhower released another 100-million from program now in effect, however, an emergency fund to bolster the imposed artificial standards for approving applications by cities to The mayors said the rationing tear down slums.

Race Board Turns Down Bookie Idea

BALTIMORE (AP)—No thanks, is the State Racing Commission's reaction to a Baltimore City proposal for legalizing off-track horse betting in Maryland.

Four Baltimore councilmen proposed a study of permitting betting through bookies. They thought this might help meet the city's need for at least 20 million dollars in new revenue next year.

Commission Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart said such a practice would upset the "delicate balance" of the present distribution of race revenue among the state, the counties and Baltimore City.

Rinehart also said it would undermine thoroughbred horse racing, adversely affect the state's tax revenue, lead to juveniles playing the horses, and tend to corrupt the industry.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

New Era For France

THE FRENCH people have taken a historic turning in the road. In a few months they will begin setting up their first really strong republican government. The vote of nearly 4 to 1 by which the French union approved a new constitution was bigger than all but the most optimistic forecasts. It represents a smashing vote of confidence in Premier Charles de Gaulle. For this is his constitution and he is expected to be the first occupant of the powerful new presidency established under it.

THE HUGE vote also reflects French fear of the alternative: a return to the wobbly, unstable government of the fourth republic, some sort of popular front with the Communists in the driver's seat, or a rightist dictatorship. In this situation the French chose De Gaulle and the first constitution in that country's history to set up an executive stronger than the legislative branch. It is agreed that most Frenchmen probably have not grasped the details or the full import of the constitution they approved. When they begin to live under it, they may not like it. But the prospect of something worse is likely to stop them short of efforts to shake it off.

AS FRANCE's leader now and in the future as president, De Gaulle finds his strength and prestige immensely enlarged. This will be of greatest value to him in dealing with the still unsolved problems of Algeria. The Algerians—in the face of dire rebel threats—voted overwhelmingly for the constitution. It is not clear whether this indicates faith in De Gaulle, a wish to stay with France, or weariness of long months of bloodshed. In any event, France looks ahead to a new era in which it may have some real hope of regaining its old place as one of the free world's powerful and resolute nations. It is a turning that all free men can cheer.

Big, Long Cheer

ALONG WITH the falling leaves come falling halfbacks. Southward-bound birds share the autumn skies with forward passes. When the ball carrier has broken through to the secondary and the crowd is on its feet howling, there isn't much time to be philosophical about the game of football. But on other days of the week besides the weekend, it is pleasant to contemplate the hold the game has on the minds of American men. It's a good game because it demonstrates in miniature how to get things done by unified effort. It is acting out dramatically what we men are up against every day in our work. In every football play, each man on the team has a specific assignment. If each one of the eleven does his job perfectly, be it large or small, the play works. If a link fails, disaster. Of course, you have the complexities and frustrations added by an equally well-trained and determined eleven men who have their assignments in opposition. That's where the luck and fun begin. But when you hear those cheers arise over the stadia you must recognize that many who cheer are essentially cheering for themselves.

President's Burden

WITH THE appointment of Wilton B. Persons as chief assistant to President Eisenhower, the organizational gap in the White House staff caused by Sherman Adams' resignation has been filled. Whether Persons will be able — whether he will be given the opportunity — fully to take the place of Adams is another matter. Adams held a position of unique responsibility. To him were attributed many decisions normally undertaken by presidents themselves. It appears likely that Persons' scope of authority will be narrower. There are reports that Mr. Eisenhower will assume some of the work done by Adams. If this change does come about, the burden of the President will be even heavier than it has been. This may seem unfortunate, but the fact is that being president involves bearing a tremendous burden; much of that burden cannot, in the interests of the nation, be delegated to anyone else. The demands of these critical times are very great. The lights must burn late in the study.

LEADING A double life has its disadvantages. For one thing, it is likely to last only about half as long as a single one.

Republicans Said To Lack Will To Win

SAN FRANCISCO — With brutal candor the Washington Wire column of The Wall Street Journal has said that depressed Republicans "lack the will to win" the forthcoming Congressional elections.

A certain poetic justice adheres to this use of the quoted phrase, for it was created by the Eisenhower Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, to indict Democratic policy in the Korean War and was inserted into the 1952 Republican platform. It still rangles among Democrats' and prevents them from feeling quite that sympathy for the Administration which its present foreign policy dilemmas merit.

It does accurately suggest a kind of demoralization about which Republicans actually on the firing line complain. They find themselves all too often burdened with feuds and factions, money shortages and utter indifference — all in addition to the normal burden of campaigning.

NOWHERE IS this more apparent than in California — a fact which has now dawned on the White House.

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon heads west this week to try to shore up his home state defenses now and for 1960. President Eisenhower will soon follow and spend at least two days here. All the Republican candidates want them to come and are confident that their receptions will be outwardly more than adequate.

But in marked contrast to the fairly recent past, nobody expects either man to pass any miracles. Each is believed to have lost ground in the leadership roles they originally staked out for themselves. Also, the issues present in the campaign are in shapes stubbornly awkward and unmanageable.

The President's task is to achieve a politically serviceable explanation of the foreign policy which finds Marines and paratroopers filling in and out of the Middle East while the Navy and the Air Force help Chinese Nationalists on islands a stone's throw from the Red China mainland.

On this issue Republicans are stuck in an unenviable middle. Their old cry of peace is untenable but they do not have the advantage of being able to "wave the flag and rally the troops as in a hot war situation. Any discussion, of course, emphasizes that the cruel dilemmas exist and are not going to go away.

PRESS COMMENT on them here is not hostile but it is at best reserved. At one point the "hard" Eisenhower line toward Red China would have been del-initely helpful to Senator William F. Knowland, who is now trying to be the next Republican governor. But Knowland has not been saying much about China in his campaign.

What Knowland does stress — the right-to-work bill, which is on the ballot — presents a problem both for Eisenhower and Nixon. The President will be asked whether he sides with Knowland or with the GOP Senate candidate, Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, who opposes right-to-work. An informed guess is that the President will insist it's a matter for the states.

But California is Nixon's state, and it was in large measure those powerful business and press interests which made him originally that have persuaded Knowland to come down so heavily on the right-to-work side.

Yet, if Nixon sides with Knowland, the Vice-President is cooked with national labor interests — a circumstance hurlful in 1960. A Nixon evasion will displease his old backers. They are already cooling toward the new Nixon who thinks in broad international terms and so are the rank-and-file Republicans who liked him better as a superb hatchet man.

This is, in short, a hard place and time for an aspiring Republican politician to make a sale.

Cease-Fire May Relieve Far East Tension

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Only peaceful solution for the Quemoy and Matsu mess suggested by the United States so far is a cease-fire agreement between the Chinese Communists and Chinese Nationalists.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has held out a further hope for renunciation of the use of force by the Chinese Communists in this area.

But so far, as the secretary declared in his Far East-America Council speech in New York, the Communists reject any cease-fire which deals only with the offshore islands. They demand Formosa itself and withdrawal of all U.S. forces from the western Pacific.

U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam has been negotiating in Warsaw with Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan on these differences, without success so far.

THE QUESTION is being raised here, however, as to how effective and lasting a Quemoy-Matsu cease-fire agreement with the Communists would be.

No administration official has so far spelled out publicly what the proposed cease-fire agreement would cover.

If it means a return to the status before Aug. 31, when the Communists began their current heavy bombardment of the islands, it would solve nothing.

The possibility of neutralization and demilitarization of the offshore islands has been given some consideration, as part of the cease-fire agreement.

Such conditions might get the United States off the hook of risky involvement in an unwanted war to defend what is generally conceded to be worthless real estate. This would also permit the Chinese Nationalists to withdraw the third of their forces—about 150,000 men—now committed to defense of the islands.

NEUTRALIZATION AND demilitarization of the islands, however, would mean their virtual surrender to the Chinese Communists. For as soon as Nationalists moved out, the Communists could be expected to move in with force, regardless of what the terms of any cease-fire agreement might be. There would be no one to stop them.

In view of all these complexities, the cease-fire agreement idea is being regarded more and more as a temporary solution of the crisis at best. Eventually the problem of ultimate decision on future status of the islands would still have to be faced up to.

There is no publicly declared plan for such a permanent solution. The only thing that Secretary of State Dulles has announced is that if the Warsaw talks do not produce results, the issue may be referred to the United Nations Security Council as a threat to the peace.

This would be done even though Communist China has repeatedly rejected all suggestions that the Security Council can take jurisdiction over Chinese internal affairs.

IF THE MATTER goes before the General Assembly it can be debated. But expressions by delegates there so far this year indicate little desire to back up the United States stand in support of the Nationalists.

This is taken to mean that the United States will have to continue going it alone to handle this problem.

This explains the opinion of some military men here that the present situation of Quemoy may continue indefinitely as a war of attrition.

The Chinese Communists are not considered strong enough to attack and seize the islands by force as long as the United States stands ready to prevent it.

The problem of supplying the islands with the 350 tons of material a day, required by the Nationalist garrison to hold out, is considered linked.

The showdown might come at the end of the monsoon season, in January.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — There used to be a handy phrase in Latin used to warn the customer that when dealing with strangers he was taking his life in his hands. It was: caveat emptor, fairly roughly translated as let the buyer beware. It still ought to be used, if the fire-side testimony of a bright young man in the decorating business is any measure.

This up and coming boy is setting the woods afire in the antique and decorating trades these New York days and he dropped in during the week-end to talk, smoke, and cleanse his soul. I don't know if he needed the first two, but he certainly needed the last.

"WOMEN," he said, "are phonies. They make a vast pretense of knowing all there is to know about fabrics. They even convince each other, and their husbands are fair game. All a woman has to do is look wise, finger a swatch of material and say: 'It's not first quality,' and all with her nod wisely and think she is the smartest thing since the Sybil. Well, now, I'll tell you about women. I have made experiments. About a month ago I bought a bolt of upholstery material. Nice stuff, good. I cut it in two across the middle of the yardage and put it on my desk in a sort of casual arrangement. A lady came in for upholstery material and after rejecting several patterns and fabrics and giving out the old I-know-everything material, she looked at my desk and said: 'That's pleasant material. I'll look at that.' The trout sped for the bait. I said: 'It's interesting that you should notice it. Actually, it's two materials. One is not very good. All right, but not the best. The other, of identical pattern as you see, is finest quality. Remove your gloves and you can feel the difference. One is $4 a yard and the other is $8.50. The top one of the two is the cheaper, as you will detect at once. It's a proof, more or less, of the unconscionable copy that goes on in the textile market. A fine new weave and good pattern comes out and the copyists do it in shoddy. It's distressing."

She walked over, fingered both, and said: 'You're right. The top length is terrible. But that bottom one is divine. I'll take it.' So I sold her $4 yardage at $8.50. Why not? She had it coming to her for trying to have such phony superior knowledge. The astonishing thing is that I'm sure she thought she was right and could feel a difference.

"THE OTHER thing is the letter bit. I have a couple of old letters of authentic period, describing in the loosest terms a desk or a table with drawers. The letters are from about 1800, or thereabouts. I tuck one in a desk drawer of an old but not necessarily fine piece and let the prospective buyer find it, as she or he goes through. It's usually folded far in the back. Not one prospect has ever said: 'Oh, look, an old letter about this desk! They pretend they never saw anything, get a price and leave. They think I don't know about the planted letter and they will have authentication of the item. Instead, I take the letter out, keep it for next time, and send them the item by delivery truck. No one ever has called back to ask what happened to the letter, either. It's actually an outgrowth of a trick my father ran into in France years ago. He went into a store and tried on a jacket which he liked. While getting the feel and heft of it, putting his hands in the pockets, his fingers closed around a 100-franc note, folded in the pocket. He didn't say anything, either, said he'd take the coat and they took it away to have it wrapped. Naturally, the note wasn't in the pocket when he unpacked the jacket in his hotel. He thought it was an amiable trick, and the fruits of it are in my letter bit with old furniture."

Was the young man not at all ashamed of himself?

"No," he said, "not really. If people deal straight with me, I'll deal straight with them. If one customer, just one, would say: 'Here, this seems to belong to you. I found it folded in the back of one of the drawers,' I'd laugh and level with him and buy him a drink. If one woman would say: 'I can't tell the least difference between these two pieces of material,' I'd level with her and tell her my dog. But since they all seem to feel either dishonest or completely wise, I feel no compunctions at all. The larcenist deserves to have larceny practiced on him, the phony material dealer deserves to have larceny practiced on her."

1920 Car Advantages

ROXBURY, Pa. — Let us consider today the automobile that delivers transportation de luxe, including orchids in the cut-glass flower vase, at a cost of one-third of a cent per mile.

Cheaper than walking. I was sitting with my old friends, John and Hilda Hosfeld, here in the Pennsylvania hills, admiring the wild ducks on their lake and the touches of pink in the woods on the mountain beyond, when Robert Craig and his pretty wife sneaked into the grounds. Not one sound did they make and no wonder.

They arrived in their 1920 model Detroit Electric coupe after a spin from the village of Scotland, 11 miles away. Their car made no more noise than a cat on a warm rubber roof.

Craig touched the button that turned the swivel seat (by ya, Mr. Chrysler) installed 38 years ago by the Anderson Automobile Co., manufacturers of the Detroit Electric, and he and Mrs. C. stepped with grace — via a genuine running board — from the magnificent coupe of shining blue.

SO, OF COURSE, I got to drive it and while I sat behind the tiller bar, tooling down the road as silently as a sailboat, Craig told me something about the economics of driving an electric automobile. He said he was glad I was impressed by the orchids in the vase. He grows 'em himself week ends in his rural greenhouse; the rest of the week he spends in Washington, D. C., as vice-president of the Fairbanks-Morse Co.

His car cost new in 1920, delivered in St. Louis, $3,250. He bought it second-hand in 1939 at a fraction of that, gave it a good polishing and a new battery from a P.T. boat, and calculated that it has cost him one cent for every three miles he has driven it.

This money mostly went for electricity for the recharger in his barn; nightly he plugs it in and next morning his coupe is good for another 125 miles.

"The other costs are not large," said Craig. "Once a year I give it a greasing, whether it needs it or not. I squirt oil on the three bearings of the motor and put grease in the cups on the springs."

"Then every five years or so, I put on a new set of tires. The old ones never are worn much, but I figure they may rot from age. And long ago I amortized the cost of the licenses."

HIS COUPE bears lavender-colored licenses, issued by the State of Pennsylvania and bearing the inscription: "Pennsylvania Antique Historic Car."

"The licenses cost $10 and they are good for life," Craig said. "That's because the state is trying to encourage the preservation of antique automobiles."

Mrs. Craig drives the Electric on all her shopping tours; last time she went to market in Chambersburg she found a man with chin whiskers beneath it. He explained that he was trying to find the motor.

People keep wanting to buy the coupe at fabulous prices; a couple of weeks ago a persistent electric auto fancier suggested that perhaps when Craig died, his widow might care to sell it. He wanted to leave a deposit, but Craig felt extra healthy that day and turned him down.

He's negotiating now for a nickel-silver battery and when he gets that his cares will be over. He calculates that it will last indefinitely, run the car 400 miles between plug-ins, and take a full charge in a few minutes. So I made a date for next year.

When he greases his Electric for 1959, I'll help him. Then we'll sit on the broadcloth, beneath the orchids, push the button and make envious folks in their 300-horsepower, streamlined jobs.

You'd think that auto speeders, from force of habit, would run while walking.

It's nice to read about the heavy attendance at our colleges. Education will never be as expensive as ignorance.

Every time Congress adjourns it ends the arguments over bills, but in the home it goes on and on.

Reporter's Notebook

During Hal Boyle's vacation, Associated Press staff members will write his column.

NEW YORK (AP) — Four or five times a month, Capt. Roald L. Olsen takes his fire engine out into New York harbor to embrace some very important visitor with a warm and wet welcoming kiss.

As skipper of the fireboat John D. McKean, otherwise known as engine No. 57, Olsen functions as a sort of Grover Whalen greeter with barnacles and without carnation. His job is to wave the official municipal hello with nozzles.

Since a good many dignitaries of various rank and renown go flitting in and out of New York in any given month, Olsen has to gauge the gush of his greeting to the importance of the celebrity.

SOMEONE LIKE Winston Churchill, who has sampled Olsen's spume, would rate the maximum cascade of cordiality. That's eight boats in the fire department fleet gathered round in a ring and each pumping up 10,000 gallons of sea-water a minute in 'sprays' 100 feet high.

It's a sight that the visitor is apt to remember all his life, particularly if a stiff breeze fans a few hundred gallons across his brow.

"When the atomic submarine Nautilus got back from the North Pole, we even broke out two or three rail-hoses on each side of the boat, in addition to the five big monitor guns on deck," Olsen recalled. "It was raining very hard, but that was a very special occasion so it called for more water."

The extra rail pipes put the Nautilus on a social level with the Queen of England.

BUT LESSER nobility or events, say the arrival of a new U.N. delegation or the opening of a new pier, might rate only two or three boats, depending on their standing in aquatic protocol.

"It's like deciding whether someone should get an 11- or a 21-gun salute," Olsen explained. "Fortunately, we don't have to make the decision. The fire commissioner, sometimes even the State Department, decides how many boats will go and what they'll do."

Sometimes, if a waterfront fire should break out at the same time, an eight-boat big shot is liable to find himself without a trickle of welcome.

Help Opportunity

While George Dixon is on vacation his place will be taken by various guest columnists.

WASHINGTON — The nasty dilemma of the United States in the Formosa Strait has presented a high opportunity to the Democrats to provide creative assistance to the President.

The most powerful of them are aware of this. And, it may be predicted, when Congress returns in January our China policy will come under a constructive review intended to find a way forward rather than to catch scapegoats.

The central problem is to develop a policy, in our relations with the Nationalist regime of Chiang Kai-shek and with the Chinese Communists, that will:

Unite the people of the United States, who seem deeply divided and deeply confused.

Draw our Western allies — Britain in particular — far closer to us in Asia.

Reduce that part of our commitment to Chiang that is merely sentimental.

Strengthen both our determination and our ability, however, not ever to see Formosa fall to the Communists.

THE REAL need, in short, is to prepare what we have never yet had — a strictly rational approach based upon practical American and Western interests. But, as though all this were not quite enough, many complex and passionate barriers must be broken down before we can even make a start.

First of all, it must be recognized that never on a foreign issue have we had the emotionally impurpled public and private partisanship that so long has cursed us over China. The right-wing Republicans years ago made bitter attempts to prove that the Democratic administrations of Messrs. Roosevelt and Truman deliberately turned mainland China over to the Communists.

This was the silliest of partisan melodrama. Nationalist China was lost by Nationalist China, and by nobody else — and all that is water over the dam, anyhow.

But incalculable harm was done. For the irrational violence of those who love Chiang far too much has been matched by the almost hysterical vehemence of those who hate and scorn him beyond all reason.

The all-out Chiang people are really arguing that he ought to be permitted to involve us in major war, if only for his own purposes. The all-out Chiang antagonists in substance are really contending that because Chiang himself is an ally of doubtful value we should just give up the whole show to the Communists.

IT SEEMS not unreasonable to suggest that the truth lies somewhere in between — and maybe even about as follows:

1. Chiang himself is certainly not so useful an ally as, say, the British in any case, and we must not do anything in his aid that will leave us naked and alone in the Western alliance.

2. Formosa, all the same, is truly vital to Western security, just as the President and Secretary of State Dulles have been saying over and over.

3. Just as it was irresponsible to destroy public confidence in the old Democratic civil and military leadership so it is irresponsible now to do the same thing to the current Republican leadership.

4. Because we simply cannot let Formosa go, we cannot afford publicly to throw Chiang to the wolves. Whatever he is otherwise, he does at present represent Formosa; Formosa is power and prestige; this power and prestige is indispensable to our Asian allies from Manila to Seoul to Korea to Tokyo.

5. Thus, in summary, we must keep the position of power — Formosa — without mortally alienating our Western allies and in such a way as not to destroy the position of prestige with our Eastern allies.

All this defines the emerging challenge to the Democrats. No doubt it is a very hard thing. But it will not be impossible, granted adult magnanimity on both sides in wiping the partisan slate clean and in calm, sensible planning for the future. What is needed is to look at the thing for what it is, a great security problem, and not merely as an opportunity either to canonize or to smash John Foster Dulles.

Doctors Plan Investigation Of Blue Cross

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland Hospital Service Inc. plans to set up a special committee to investigate the unnecessary use of Blue Cross hospital insurance.

The announcement was made to State Insurance Commissioner Charles S. Jackson yesterday as higher Blue Cross rates went into effect for the state's one million subscribers.

The increased rates averaging 13.9 per cent were approved by Jackson's office last July 17. At a public hearing, Blue Cross had asked for a 22.3 per cent boost. New group rates are $2.54 monthly for an unmarried person and $6 a month for family coverage. Individual coverage, under the direct payment plan, is $2.84 and family coverage $6.64.

Blue Cross Director R. H. Dabney told Jackson a special committee of five physicians will conduct a continuous review of the use of hospital facilities. He said the group will confer with the hospital council in an effort to "bring to light any unnecessary use of hospital facilities and eliminate them."

Dabney said Blue Cross plans to screen admissions more carefully.

HORIZONTAL SILO—This bunker full of chopped grass silage, packed firm by weight of tractor, is covered with plastic or neoprene-coated nylon. Two to three inches of weighting material seals cover, prevents air movement and limits spoilage when rolled back for feeding. Because of their low cost, ease of filling and feeding of cattle, bunker-type silos are gaining in popularity among farmers. The old problem of excessive spoilage has been licked by Agriculture Department researchers at Beltsville, Md. They report that proper packing and sealing techniques can keep silage losses as low as in upright silos. USDA pictures above show the proper method for storing in a bunker silo. Silage must be continually packed by tractor during filling, then immediately covered. Tight plastic covers of black polyethylene, vinyl, or neoprene-coated nylon were found to provide an airtight seal. Maintaining a firm and even weight over the cover is essential to prevent air movement under the plastic when it is punctured or opened for feeding. Silage was chopped grass, but same techniques apply to corn or sorghum.

Youngsters Cause Market Clerks To Age

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Toddlers on the loose are prematurely aging supermarket clerks and managers across the land.

To a toddler, there is joy in pulling an orange from the bottom of a neat pyramid. Done right, the whole thing tumbles down.

In the bottled goods department, nothing attracts like the skinny neck of the catsup bottle. It's easy to pick up and has inherent ability to slip, accidentally-like, out of pint-sized hands that are "just lookin'" for smashing success.

Little fingers succumb easily to the temptation of a meat package stowed on the lower shelf of a supermarket cart. Poked properly, the thing squirts juice.

Unwrapping those paper rolls mommy gets for the bathroom produces untold delight. Provided, of course, the young tormentor can make the tissue trail like a kite's tail while he—or she—runs up and down aisles.

Rare pleasure from pushing other people's carts. Pop chases after, but before he can apprehend the bundle of humanity on the loose, many strangers are apt to get bumped.

Imprisoning the youngster in those seats in the carts takes its toll of adult nervous systems, too. There is an occasional scream. When mommies aren't looking, the young things have been seen dropping canned goods on eggs.

At the check-out counter, little fingers push cash register buttons—mommy or the clerk isn't looking.

At this point, smacks are futile and the toddlers get a quick trip to the car. But seldom is there crying. In another week, they know, it will be time to shop again.

Research Shows Some Bacteria Whips Cancer

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sickening bacteria, while making a "host" person very, very sick, will sometimes knock for a loop a cancer to which that person also is playing "host."

It's an astonishing phenomenon. If science understood the why and how of it, it might be a usable—and highly useful—weapon.

Hence, there is keen scientific interest in experiments of Drs. Russell T. Jordan, A. F. Rasmussen Jr. and Howard R. Bierman. They put bacterial infections on top of cancers in experimental mice and found that most of the mice "which weren't killed by infection or cancer or both, were cured of their cancers."

Through Nose
To put one on top of the other was no small technical feat. They did it by first instilling leukemic cells through noses of the mice so the cells collected in the lymph nodes beneath the jaw and in the neck and formed into liquid and highly malignant tumors.

Forty-eight to 72 hours later, they instilled streptococci bacteria into the same nodes by the same route. Of 100 mice infected with them 48 hours after getting cancer cells, 40 died of either infection, cancer or pneumonia within 21 days. Of the remainder, 48 survived a mystery-filled chemical battle between bacteria and cancer cells inside the lymph nodes and at the end all 48 were found to be free of cancer.

Rough On Hosts
But of 100 mice who were infected 72 hours after the cancer cells were put in them, only 26 survived long enough to be pronounced cancer-free. It seemed the sooner strep bacteria and cancer cells met inside the "host" mice the worse it was for both of them. But fighting fire with fire was rough on the hosts.

The scientists sought to control the bacteria by injecting penicillin in varying doses at varying intervals. In most of the dead mice, the bacteria escaped control. In the others the cancer cells got out of hand.

The scientists reported on their experiments in the technical journal, Cancer Research.

Freedom Trip Costs 7 Cents On Trolley

By JOSEPH FLEMING

BERLIN (UPI)—Every morning around eight o'clock passengers get out of West Berlin's No. 15 trolley and head for a sprawling, compound of factory-like buildings, as if they were rushing to get to work.

Their number, between 300 and 700, is enough, too, to staff a good-sized factory.

Every day they come, but every day they are different people. They are refugees from East Berlin and East Germany who have taken a seven-cent forbidden trip to freedom in West Berlin's Marienfelde reception center.

Marienfelde Allee on which the center is located is known as the "Allee of the Homeless." A similar number slip across the guarded frontiers every 24 hours into West Germany.

Doctor Against Allowing Hopelessly Ill To Die

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Should a physician prolong the life of a hopelessly ill and dying patient? A small-town doctor has given an emphatic "no" to this delicate and profound question of medical ethics. His arguments in favor of bowing to "nature's wisdom" are now being circulated throughout the medical profession.

Physicians generally feel their obligation is to life, even if it's a mere thread of life that's frayed almost to the breaking point. To this concept, Dr. Martin Donelson Jr. of Danville, Va., replies that "life is indeed sacred but not sacrosanct to the point of inflicting costly and painful indignities on someone who has earned his repose."

He spoke only of dying persons whom physicians keep "in vegetative existence by artificial means." He had observed "competent and conscientious physicians preserve life for weeks and months in cases, with stupor and even coma, in patients who would have quietly expired in a day or so if left mercifully alone."

Donelson based himself morally upon the Golden Rule and upon a portion of the Hippocratic Oath which all physicians take and which is the keystone of medical ethics. He quoted this portion: "I will follow that method of treatment which, according to my ability and judgment, I consider for the benefit of my patients and abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous."

Pilot Extinguishes Fire On Plane

BALTIMORE (AP) — A four-engine airliner out of Newark had almost reached Baltimore when a crew member saw the reflection of fire in one of the engines.

Capt. Jim Hoard, pilot of the DCT carrying 32 passengers, released a fire extinguishing fluid into the engine and feathered its prop. The fire was out before he brought the plane into a perfect landing at the nearby Martin Co. airport. No one was hurt.

The incident happened yesterday. One hour, 51 minutes later in the Battle of the Alamo.

Ghana Becomes First To Recognize State

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI) — Ghana has become the first nation to extend diplomatic recognition to the new independent state of Guinea, its African neighbor which chose independence rather than membership in a French community in Sunday's referendum on Premier Charles de Gaulle's new constitution for France.

Scientists Plan To Aid Area Pupils

Members of the Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society met with the county school officials to discuss ways of encouraging an interest in the scientific field.

Meeting with the four professional scientists were Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent, and Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools.

Chemical society members at the conference were Dr. Gordon Sutherland, Dr. Charles A. Orlick, L. Max Heming and R. W. Phillips Jr.

After a lengthy session Tuesday afternoon, the group decided that members of the Chemical Society should serve as resource people for occupational information in the field of science.

It also was decided that the scientists from time to time would conduct demonstrations in their respective fields for the enlightenment of students especially interested in science.

Webster told the scientists that there already is considerable interest in science among the pupils in Allegany County high schools. The number taking biology, chemistry and physics in county schools is higher than the national average, the superintendent said.

SUPPLIES FLOWING—Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander-in-chief of U. S. forces in the Pacific, told a news conference yesterday in the Pentagon that the flow of supplies to Quemoy is improving every day and the situation is far from hopeless. He also said that in the eyes of Asian political leaders, the coastal islands, threatened by Chinese Communists, are an important psychological symbol. Adm. Felt flew to Washington from his Pearl Harbor headquarters for a meeting of the Anzus Council of Ministers, the military alliance linking Australia, New Zealand and the United States. (AP Photofax)

Tax Exemption Forms Sent To More Than 300 Residents

More than 300 tax exemption forms for 1959 have been mailed to county tax exemption if forms for 1958 have been mailed the combined income of husband and wife is less than $100 per month, if both are over 65 years old and if they live in the property concerned.

It was pointed out that elderly property owners must apply anew each year for exemption, as it is not continued without a new application.

With the new forms goes a form letter from Mr. Stevenson explaining that a couple is entitled to county tax exemption if the combined income of husband and wife is less than $100 per month, if both are over 65 years old and if they live in the property concerned.

Stevenson stressed that the applications must be filled in and returned to the county commissioners' office at the Court House before December 10.

This year some 239 property owners are getting tax exemption on property with a total assessed valuation of about $600,000.

YMCA Fall Program Will Open October 13

The fall and winter program at Central YMCA will open Monday, October 13, according to James H. Fortner, director.

The program will be open to youngsters from the third to eighth grades of public and parochial schools of the Cumberland area. Specific courses of instruction in physical skills will be taught to those members registering.

He pointed out that in the new program youngsters of the same age, physical and mental abilities will be brought together in the various classes. Each course will last eight weeks and a parents' night will be held at the end of the session to demonstrate the skills learned.

The tentative schedule of the opening session will consist of three units. Fortner said Unit One for third and fourth graders will include beginner's trampolining, a recreational swim and club period when various activities including educational movies, crafts will be held. This unit will meet on Monday afternoon after school.

Unit Two, for the same group, will meet on Saturday morning and will consist of beginner's tumbling, recreational swim and a club period. The swim instruction schedule for the two grades is included in Unit Three.

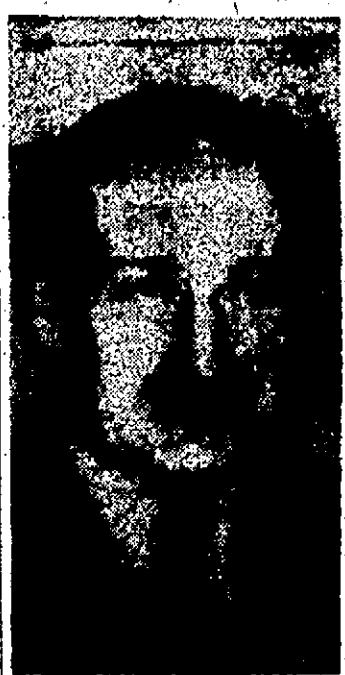

On Monday afternoon Minnow "A" pupils will swim; Tuesday, Flying Fish; Wednesday, Flying Fish and Shark; Thursday, Pee Wee (first and second grade pupils who are pre-members) and on Friday, Minnow "B".

All the above swim classes will be followed by a club period. Fifth and sixth graders will meet on Wednesday and Saturday while seventh and eighth graders will meet on Friday and Saturday. The four latter classes will be able to get in swimming instructions.

Fortner said basketball will be substituted for tumbling for the seventh and eighth graders. All activities will be on a sign-up basis.

He pointed out that a maximum of 15 boys will enroll in the trampolining course, a maximum of 20 boys in the tumbling course and a maximum of 20 boys in the swim instruction courses. When courses have reached their quota, waiting lists will be started for the next session. There will be registration fees.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Fortner at Central YMCA.

State Reports Decrease In Jobless Pay

BALTIMORE (AP)—Unemployment benefits issued under the Maryland Unemployment Insurance program decreased during August while benefits issued under the 13-week federal emergency program increased.

The Department of Employment Security said yesterday benefits mailed under the State program were still twice the figure for August last year.

Executive Director Robert B. Kimble said the increase in the federal extension program was caused by persons who exhausted their regular benefits and shifted to the additional 13-week program.

The State mailed checks during August totaling $3,923,250, down 15.5 per cent from $4,640,922 for the previous month.

During the same month 2,526 persons exhausted their full 26 weeks under the State program, bringing to 26,713 the total who ran out of benefits since last Oct. 1 when it first became possible to exhaust their benefits.

This included income from taxes, sewage charges and miscellaneous revenues.

October 20 is the deadline for the payment of city taxes without interest.

Doctor Against

In these hopeless and dying cases the physician should not prescribe blood nor "undue" artificial feedings, Donelson said, "and at the end should have the courage to discontinue antibiotics if these are an unduly prolonging factor."

The physician should be "in conscientious attendance and control over the case," and he should be "sure his patient is free of pain and thirst and has good nursing care."

Laymen should not confuse Donelson's views with the idea of "mercy death." There the physician helps death to take over. Donelson's view is that when death is present and life, though existing, has no chance, the physician should "embrace watchful waiting."

"Actually, what is involved is the conservation of angular momentum, something that should certainly be conserved by old and sundry. It is merely necessary to exert a small, but carefully, regulated impulse (the product of force X time) by allowing a hypersensitive sacrificial to impinge on a small portion of the interior periphery of a short section of the hoop. The impulse, applied with some discretion, serves to produce a change in the angular-momentum of the hoop, and if the force of this impulse is so directed that there is a small vertical component of this momentum opposing the force of gravity which acts uniformly over the plane of the hoop, then the resulting horizontal motion will be maintained with rare uniformity to the amazement of all beholders who do not realize that the whole deal is just as easy as falling off a log."

The City of Cumberland yesterday issued a permit to Herman A. Snoots to build a one-story brick dwelling on Lots 35-36 of Edgevale Avenue. It will be 43 by 35 feet and cost $9,000.

City Transit Line Offered For Sale

Receivers Cite Loss; Court Acts

Cumberland is faced with the possibility of having no bus service for its citizens.

An order passed Tuesday in Allegany County Circuit Court has placed the Cumberland Transit Lines up for sale.

Sealed bids will be opened 1:30 p. m. Tuesday, October 14, by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

September Loss

Judge Harris gave the receivers the authority after the first report which showed the bus line operated at a loss of $856 between August 26 and September 30.

And included in the receipts was a $760 charter job that will apparently not recur in following months.

On August 26 in Circuit Court the bus line was declared insolvent.

Guy M. Davis, one of the owners, and Henry W. Price Sr., retired Potomac Edison Company manager, were named receivers and they qualified under $10,000 bond.

Subsequently, on petition of the receivers and order of the court William C. Walsh and William A. Gunter were named attorneys for the receivers.

Tuesday, the receivers filed their initial report.

Receipts Listed

They said that between August 26 and September 30, they deposited $10,800 as income. Included in that was a charter trip for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company on Labor Day for $760.

There was an additional income of $50 to $60 a day during the races at Fairgo.

The balance after paying expenses from the total receipts came to $1,113.34.

However, there was a bill for $732 to the Rogell Insurance Agency, Pittsburgh; $624 for gas, $146 for oil, $65 phone, $27 electric, and materials, $107. This left a deficit of $590.

The receivers also listed income for Saturday, September 27, $318.60; Sunday, $9.45, and Monday, $456.20 for an additional $784.25.

It was also estimated the income on Tuesday, the last day of the month, would be $300. These receipts plus $300 forthcoming from the Harry M. Stevens Inc., caterers at Fairgo, would bring total receipts to $1,384.

Obligations Cited

The company still owes bills totaling $590; wages, $1,200 for drivers and hourly employees from September 24 to September 30, and office salaries, $450.

The operation of the bus line for a little over a month by the receivers showed a deficit of $856.26.

The company paid $325 for tires and tubes on September 15, and the final payment of $476 is due November 15.

When the receivers were appointed, the report shows, the company had $47.69 in the bank. Added to money used for change purposes there is a total of $999.88 in cash on hand.

The transit lines has a mortgage held by the Cumberland Savings Bank and the Small Business Administration, a mortgage on the garage held by Paul Blundon of Keyser, and is subject to collections by the state, county and city tax collectors.

The report shows the line has 23 buses. Four are listed as having a net worth of $1,303.30; each, six, $1,311.23 each; and 13 at $50 each.

Materials and supplies on hand are placed at being valued at $8,482.

Adventists Hold Rally Saturday

The Seventh-Day Adventist churches of the Cumberland area will sponsor an all-day youth rally on Saturday in the LaVale Fire Hall, beginning at 9:30 a. m. A. J. Patzer, Parkersburg, president of the West Virginia Conference of Adventists, will preach at the 11 a. m. service.

Patzer spent eight years as youth leader of the Columbia Union Conference, which covers an area of six states, prior to his election as president of the West Virginia Conference.

An investiture service for a class of young people will be held at the Frostburg Adventist Church tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. led by Elder Dale Ingersoll of Parkersburg. Patzer will also address the group.

A baptism service will be held at 5:30 p. m. on Saturday at the Church of the Brethren, Second and Cedar streets.

The Hilltoppers, a quartet from Washington Missionary College, will present a musical program under leadership of M. E. Loewen, dean of men at the college.

Saturday afternoon the young people will visit homes in the LaVale area. An evening worship period will close the day's activities.

Installation Set

Rabbi Max Selinger will be formally installed as spiritual leader of the B'er Chayim Congregation at services Friday, October 10, at 8 p. m. Rabbi Donald Heskins of Richmond, Va., will officiate.

Tawes Target Of Devereux On Tax Plans

Demo Candidate Suggests Eight Ways For Effective Policy

By The Associated Press
James P. S. Devereux today denounced as a "sheer flim-flam" his opponent's stand in favor of a graduated income tax.

The Republican candidate for governor asked in a statement released at Baltimore, "How can Mr. Tawes propose such a levy and still keep faith with his own Democratic platform of favoring 'a fair and impartial tax system'?"

In a recent television program in which both candidates appeared, J. Millard Tawes, the Democratic aspirant, expressed favor for the graduated hike which taxes high incomes proportionately more heavily.

Eight-Point Program

Meanwhile, Tawes was laying down his own eight-point program on taxes and how to keep them within bounds.

He outlined his ideas on fiscal matters during a tour of Kent County yesterday with other members of the party's harmony ticket, Senate candidate Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore; State Sen. Louis L. Goldstein, running for comptroller, and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, candidate for reelection.

Devereux statement said, "I wonder if my opponent knows that our flat-rate income tax was re-enacted in 1939 to replace the old 4 1/2 mills tax on intangible personal property."

"Has he ever seen the Rawls Commission report which approved the flat rate income tax as 'sound in theory' but flatly rejected the graduated income tax as one that was in danger of being 'carried to extremes'?"

The GOP candidate also noted that a Legislative Council subcommittee in 1955 termed Maryland's tax structure sound and added that any new additions should be kept in harmony with the original tax structure.

Asks Question

"Does my opponent believe that the people and businesses of Maryland now will stand for a graduated State income tax on top of the graduated federal income tax?" Devereux asked.

Tawes, comptroller of Maryland the past 16 years, suggested eight main points must be observed to achieve an effective tax policy. He listed them as:

1. Sound budget procedures.
2. Efficient government service at a minimum cost.
3. State borrowing only with proper provision for debt retirement.
4. Elimination of confiscatory taxes, which he described as self-defeating because they discourage incentive to work, save and invest.
5. Equitable taxes.
6. The State must not set up tax barriers which would hinder growth of new business nor hit the low-income group.
7. Fair and efficient administration of tax laws.
8. "All taxes ultimately are paid by individuals. Therefore, they should be appraised for their ultimate impact on the individual citizens of Maryland."

Trim Off Fat

Tawes said the income and sales levies must continue to be the chief sources of taxation. And he promised if elected that he would scrutinize departmental budget requests to trim off any "fat."

D'Alesandro raised a number of issues he has dwelt on before in trying to unseat Republican J. Glenn Beall for reelection to the Senate.

The mayor criticized Beall for favoring off-shore oil rights for the states. Beall has pointed out D'Alesandro in 1952 urged him to back such legislation when Beall was in the House of Representatives.

D'Alesandro also chided his opponent for the bags of sugar which have appeared in some restaurants with a printed plug for Beall's reelection. D'Alesandro said the advertisements do not

Bids Sought For Trucking Parcel Post

Round Trips From Baltimore, Paw Paw To Improve Service

The Post Office Department is seeking bids for the transportation of parcel post between Baltimore and Cumberland by truck, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon, who said the proposal is being advanced as an improvement in service between the two points.

"Persons interested in the trucking plan may secure the details by calling at the local Post Office, Conlon said. The bids will be received until 3:30 p. m. Thursday, October 30, he added.

According to a directive from the Post Office Department, round trips must be made from Baltimore to Cumberland seven times a week, with stops scheduled to be made at Frederick, Hagerstown and Hancock during the 137-mile trip.

Hourly Trip Planned

Another section of the directive calls for round trips to be made from the Post Office here to Paw Paw, with stops scheduled at the B&O Station here, Spring Gap, Oldtown, Paw Paw Post Office and the Avon plant in that community. The round trips are to be made within an hour each way, six times a week, but no service will be required on eight national holidays.

All types of mail and empty equipment shall be carried by the trucker, Conlon said, adding that box delivery and collection service is not required.

A schedule submitted with the proposal calls for trucks to leave Baltimore at 12:30 a. m. daily, except Sunday when runs will start at 3 a. m., and arrival due in this city within five hours. The trip back to Baltimore is to start at 6:30 p. m. daily, with arrival in Baltimore due within five hours.

On Standard Time

The Paw Paw run from Cumberland will be made at 6 a. m. daily, except Sunday and holidays, and arrival is to be made in Paw Paw within an hour. The return trip will be made at 5 p. m. under the same conditions. The Post Office Department requires that all runs operate on Standard Time, Conlon explained. The postmaster said, it is as Seven Army Reserve officers and five enlisted men of the Cumberland and Lonaconing units will take part in a tactical exercise called "Trapline" at Fort Meade today and tomorrow, according to Lt. Col. F. L. Cawood, senior unit advisor to the Reserve units in Allegany and Garrett counties.

The local men will be part of an exercise which will graphically illustrate the lessons of an atomic battlefield.

Reservists who will take part are Master Sgts. Joseph L. DeMarino, 819 Shawnee Avenue; David S. Hahn, 508 Rose Hill Avenue; and George D. Keith, 503 Franklin Street, all of the 388th Ordnance Battalion; Capt. Leslie J. Clark, LaVale; First Lt. Raymond M. Chaney, Westernport; Sgt. John E. Bradburn, Potomac Park; and Sgt. John E. Frank, 829 Mt. Royal Avenue, of the 372nd Military Police Company; Lt. Col. Ace H. Humbertson, 23 Cresap Drive, Bowling Green, commanding officer, 388th Ordnance Battalion; Maj. William G. In addition, members of both the Ordnance and MP units will take part in tactical type exercises designed to test strategic concepts of modern warfare. The program will be known as "Trapline II," about 4,000 Reserve, National Guard and regular Army men will take part.

"Trapline II is the second of a five-year series of command post exercises to train officers and men in operations under assumed wartime conditions.

The theoretical exercise assumes the use of atomic weapons, antiaircraft artillery using proven missiles and Air Force support for the destruction of the enemy's potential. A public display of atomic-age weapons will be featured at Fort Meade during the exercises.

Frost Takes Garden Toll

Goodbye gardens. That is what their owners are saying today after the first widespread killing frost of the season.

Temperatures dropped to as low as 24 degrees at Oakland and 25 degrees at LaVale, and 29 degrees at Cumberland.

The frost ruined tomatoes, beans and other vegetation. Light frosts had been reported in some scattered localities before this morning, but the one today did the job in a general way.

The forecast calls for Allegany and Garrett counties to be partly cloudy tonight with the lows in the 30s. Tomorrow is to be rather cloudy and a chance of some rain.

Selective Service Offices Changed

The offices of the Selective Service Boards have been moved from the second floor to the third floor of the Post Office Building. P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator, said the new quarters are located in Room 328.

Five-Year-Old Boy Dies As Result Of Farm Fall

A five-year-old Garrett County boy died yesterday in an accident at a neighbor's farm near Grantsville.

The victim was Joseph A. Tice, son of Raymond and Ruth (Yoder) Tice of Grantsville.

Death was attributed to a skull fracture and other head injuries. Relatives said the boy apparently fell from a baler and struck his head on a wheel or rock. The machine was not moving.

His father and Daniel Fulk, on whose property the mishap occurred Tuesday about 4 p. m., were seated on a nearby tractor at the time but did not discover the accident until a half-hour later.

The boy was born June 8, 1953 in the Meyersdale Hospital. Surviving, in addition to his parents, are a brother, Daniel, and two sisters, Elaine and Doris, at home, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas D. Tice of Boynton, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Yoder, Grantsville.

Services will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. in Maple Glen Congregational Church near Grantsville. Rev. Ivan Miller will officiate with burial in the church cemetery.

Bedford Road Firemen Plan Open House

The Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company will observe National Fire Prevention Week with an open house Sunday from 1 to 9 p. m. at the Fire Hall.

The program will be under the direction of Frederick Parnell, chief, and David Wilson, assistant chief.

A feature will be a detailed outline of the company's equipment, display of the unit's truck and members of the company will be on hand to explain the equipment throughout the day.

Chief Parnell said members of the company wish to express their appreciation to the residents of the community for the job they have done in observing fire prevention during the past year.

The chief noted that the company had fewer calls than any previous year. This, he says, is because the people followed the simple rules of keeping litter cleaned up, putting garbage in proper containers, checked bad wiring in their homes, and kept their flues and furnaces in good condition.

Chief Parnell said that during next week a home to home inspection will be held for residents who desire the check.

The chief has asked residents of the area who plan to burn rubbish and leaves to be careful to have ample tools and water available, and in case they plan to turn a large amount of leaves to contact the department.

Refreshments will be served by the company's Auxiliary.

The unit will sponsor its usual round and square dance Saturday beginning at 9 p. m., with music by the Swingtones.

Other activities scheduled by the company include its annual supper on October 18 from 5 to 8 p. m. with all proceeds going toward new fire equipment.

A toy fair will be sponsored by the auxiliary on Friday evening with the proceeds going to the auxiliary.

The advisory board and trustees of the fire company will meet Saturday at 6 p. m. at the Fire Hall.

24 Take Part In Girl Scout Workshops

Twenty-four Girl Scout volunteer leaders attended the first session of the Dramatics and Ceramics Workshop sponsored by the Cumberland Girl Scout Council Tuesday.

Songs appropriate for dramatic and ceremonial occasions will be directed by Mrs. Z. P. Zimowski, chairman of the training committee. The session will be held from 10 a. m. until noon.

After a "nosebag" lunch, provided by each individual member, the workshop will continue with ceremonies conducted by Miss Olive Hurlburt, Scout executive. The first to be practiced will be a standard flag ceremony for use in troop meetings for Brownies, Intermediates and Senior Scouts. The session will close at 2 p. m.

Leaders, whether new or experienced, and dramatics consultants are welcome at one or all of the sessions of the workshop.

Leaders of the Salvation Army, Girl Scouts have been invited. The third session will be held Tuesday October 7 from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. at the Girl Scout House.

Meeting Slated By Study Group

The general theme of the study group will be parent-child home associations, according to Mrs. Joyce Schindler, chairman, who said the lecturer will be Mrs. Ralph Isinger.

All members of the school's Parent-Teacher Association should attend the opening session. Mrs. Schindler said. Those unable to do so, and who wish to participate in the study project, should notify the school office at PA 4-5894, it was explained.

New Agency Incorporated As CUF Unit

Aid At Local Level Aims; Success Noted At Kickoff Dinner

Following last night's kick-off announcement that the 1958 United Fund drive had netted $233,872.45 toward a $339,622 goal even before the formal campaign opened, Lewis J. Ort, County United Fund president, said that the United Givers' executive committee has approved the incorporation of a Health Purposes Fund as a CUF agency.

"The foundation will not only take care of health cases at the local level," Ort said, "but will also direct funds into research for cancer, heart, TB and all other ailments."

Pointing out that the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation is already affiliated with CUF, he said: "We have good friends in the national health agencies. We want them to join CUF, and they want to join, but their national policies prevent our getting together."

"Until the day comes when we can join forces, we have to provide the United Giver with full coverage of his interests. He wants to give once—for all areas needs—and the Health Purposes Foundation will enable him to do just that."

Plan Direct Assistance

As set up, the new agency will contribute directly to the care of patients who heretofore may have relied on assistance from agencies whose national rules prohibit them from becoming affiliated with the County United Fund. It will also distribute funds to research organizations that are approved by the CUF board of directors.

Ort explained that the foundation has been in the making for many months. It will be incorporated very soon, he said, and its affairs will be administered by prominent doctors, business and labor leaders, and other professional men.

At last night's kick-off meeting at the North Branch plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Roy Satzer, chairman of the Allegany Ballistics Employees Charity Committee, announced that the ABL group, in an effort to eliminate multiple fund drives, will no longer contribute to any charity or health appeal except CUF. His wife, Mrs. Bette Satzer, rang the victory bell to sound the opening of the 1958 campaign.

ABL employees have already topped their assigned goal by nearly $2,000. Celanese employees reported a contribution of $17,500 last night—which is $2,300 over their goal.

PPG employees seem well on the way to breaking records for individual giving for the second straight year, with $15,500 reported to date for 745 employees. Kelly-Springfield employees are going over the top in their campaign, reporting $16,000 to date, with more to come in.

Leaders Introduced

Ort introduced campaign leaders and mayors of the CUF area, and paid tribute to Dr. W. Royce Hodges, local gynecologist, and City Attorney William R. Carscaden, who, he said, laid the groundwork for a United Fund here.

Reports for industrial in-plant charity committees were made by T. J. Klauenberg, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; Hudson Nix, Celanese Corporation of America; Herbert M. Dye, Kelly Springfield Tire Company; Norman Curtis, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company; Joseph M. Miller, Western Maryland Railway; and Roy P. Satzer, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

A breakdown of the amounts contributed to CUF to date includes:

Golden Gifts, Cumberland — $107,411.50; Classified, Cumberland — $19,622; Business, Cumberland — $1,707.93; County Areas — $22,375; Allegany Ballistics Laboratory employees — $10,000; Celanese employees — $17,500; West Virginia Pulp and Paper employees — $9,600; B & O employees — $16,000; Kelly-Springfield employees — $16,000; Pittsburgh Plate Glass employees — $16,500; and Western Maryland Railway employees — $3,056.

Amendment To SS Law Aids Widows

Recent amendments to the original Social Security law removes some of the restrictions on marriages and remarriages.

James A. Gwinn, manager of the local SS office, said today that in the past marriage or remarriage was often a reason for ending social security benefit payments to dependents or survivors of insured workers.

Gwinn pointed out that under the old provisions of the law, if a child, widow, or widower, or to an aged dependent parent, would stop when that dependent married.

However, Gwinn said, a change in the social security law will now make it possible for them to go ahead with their marriage plans. Under this change, a dependent's social security benefit payments will not stop if he or she marries another person who is also receiving social security payments as a dependent.

A woman receiving widow's benefits can therefore marry a person who is getting dependent parent's benefits, or she can marry someone who is eligible for benefits as a dependent widower or as the disabled son or daughter of a retired or deceased worker, Gwinn said.

Marriage to a person who is not receiving social security benefits will still end the benefit rights (present or future) of a dependent-beneficiary. But another change in the law will help dependent-beneficiaries who marry persons who are now or who may soon be getting old-age insurance or disability insurance benefits.

Gwinn also said that until now, such a marriage would have ended the dependent's benefits and he or she would have had to wait at least three years to get benefits as the dependent of the new spouse, or in the event of his death, she would not have been able to qualify for benefits as his widow unless the marriage had been in effect for at least one year.

The 1958 amendments to the law remove these periods. For example a woman could therefore marry a man who is getting old-age insurance benefits and qualify immediately for wife's benefits based on his social security account.

Green also stated that he will support any measure which will improve the quality of education provided for the school children of this county.

Verdict Near For Slaying

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A verdict is expected today in the murder trial of two Lorton Reformatory inmates accused of killing a guard last Feb. 13.

Thurman L. Dodson, attorney for Gomez, argued unsuccessfully that testimony in the eight-day trial indicated Gomez might have been insane when the crime was committed.

Defense and prosecuting attorneys will make their final arguments today before the case goes to the jury.

"It has come to my attention," he said, "that my Republican opponent still is giving away sugar in great quantities in little packages bearing political advertising without the identifying authorization required by the Maryland Corrupt Practices Act."

Beall in Cecil

"Of course, it is probably too much to expect that the Republicans will pay any attention to election laws in view of their unsavory tactics in this and previous Maryland elections."

During a day-long tour of Cecil County yesterday with other members of the statewide ticket, Beall reminded D'Alesandro that the mayor's own running mate, Goldstein, had once backed state ownership of offshore oil and other resources.

Beall said that in 1949 Goldstein was one of the Maryland legislators who supported a resolution supporting states' rights over federal jurisdiction of offshore territory.

In the Sixth District congressional race, Democrat John R. Foley charged Republican DeWitt Hyde had used "legislative parliamentary gobbledegook to obscure the fact he switched his vote on the Republican school construction program."

"Foods With A Flair"*Spicy Heart Italiane Unusual Treat

Have you discovered how much interest you can add to your menus with variety meats?

Good eating and good for you are the substantial, flavor-rich dishes made with these meats. No matter whether it's liver, tongue, sweetbreads, kidneys or heart that is the best liked in your household, every family has its flavored recipes for these delicacies.

Variety meats wear an attractive price tag, too—and lend themselves to many flavorful combinations. Wise homemakers realize that these meats are a good measure of nutritive value, and should be included regularly in the diet.

Heart has always enjoyed great popularity. Beef heart is the largest available, and usually weighs about 4 pounds. Veal and pork hearts average about 1½ pound each, and lamb hearts about ¾ pound. All heart requires long, slow cooking by moist heat.

Frequently this flavorful meat is prepared baked and stuffed. But, for a change it's fun to try a novel dish like this Heart Italiane. Featuring juicy, tender heart cubes braised in a well-seasoned, savory tomato and cheese sauce, it's a perfect selection for parties as well as for casual family dinners. Be sure to have plenty on hand, for everyone is certain to enjoy this tasty dish.

Two pounds of veal or beef heart are needed for this company special recipe. First, wash the heart thoroughly. Then remove the hard parts and veins. Cut the meat into 1-inch cubes. Brown the heart, ½ cup of chopped onion and 1 minced clove of garlic in 3 tablespoons of lard or drippings.

Add 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 1 can (4 ounces) tomato paste and 1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) tomatoes. Simmer 2 hours, or until meat is tender and the mixture thickened. Serve over the spaghetti and top with grated cheese. This recipe serves 6 to 8 persons. It's especially good when served with wedges of head lettuce and herb bread.

Add cooked quartered scallops and canned drained sliced mushrooms to a cream sauce; heat but do not boil. Serve over very crisp buttered toast and top with crisply-cooked bacon. Add a green vegetable or a salad and you have a fine main course for a company lunch.

Chiffonade dressing is delicious over hearts of lettuce. To prepare it, just add chopped hard-cooked egg, chopped cooked or canned beets, minced onion and parsley to French dressing.

Fish Fillets Cooked With White Wine

Cooking with wine is fun—and not so expensive as it sounds. After all domestic wines are excellent and inexpensive. And once you've cooked with wine, you'll understand why wine cookery intrigues. If you're a novice, there's no better way to begin your wine cookery than with fish, because fish and wine just naturally seem to have an affinity for one another.

California Broiled Fillets
1 package frozen fish fillets
Salt and pepper
Juice of half a lemon
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 small onions, sliced thin
½ cup California white wine
1 tablespoon flour mixed with 1 tablespoon soft butter
¼ cup milk
4 stuffed olives, sliced.

Let fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Separate fillets and place in preheated broiled pan. If fillets have skin on them, place skin side down. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Arrange onion slices over fish. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Place in broiler, about 3 inches from source of heat. Broil (basting frequently with wine) about 10 minutes, or until fish separates easily when tested with a fork. Remove fish and onion slices to a hot platter. Place broiler pan over heat or transfer juice to a small saucepan. Stir flour mixed with butter into liquid with milk and half of olive slices. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Pour sauce over fish. Garnish with remaining olive slices. Serve immediately. Makes 3 servings.

A two-pound boneless smoked pork shoulder butt is a good choice for a small family. Cover the butt with water and simmer a couple of hours. Drain and stick with whole cloves; pat brown sugar over the top and sides. Place in a hot oven to glaze.

TEENS' MACARONI AND CHEESE IDEAL FOR AUTUMN SUPPER PARTIES

When teen-agers get together for a party, they like hearty food and plenty of it. They're choosy, too, and have favorites that rate high on their menus.

Baked macaroni and cheese, for instance, will always rate raves, especially if it has an unusual flavor twist. In this mouth-watering macaroni and cheese casserole, chive cream cheese gives a deliciously different taste while slices of pimiento-stuffed olives add a bright touch.

Make this crowd-sized casserole the star of your buffet table and the success of your party will be guaranteed. Serve with barbecued frankfurters, hot crusty bread (garlicky or plain), a tossed salad, mugs of hot chocolate milk, and scoops of vanilla ice cream topped with crushed peanut brittle or peppermint.

Informed teen-agers know that a buffet supper is one of the fun ways to entertain. Guests enjoy helping themselves and may even give you a hand with the preparations.

Teens' Macaroni and Cheese
(Makes 8-10 servings)

2 tablespoons salt
4-6 quarts boiling water
4 cups elbow macaroni (1 pound)
2 6-ounce packages chive cream cheese, softened

2 cups commercial sour cream
½ cup sliced pimiento, drained
green olives
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Add 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Combine macaroni, cheese, cream, olives, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper; mix well. Turn into greased 2½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 35 minutes.

Spaghetti Sauce

Combine an 8-ounce can tomato sauce with a tablespoon instant minced onion, one of dried parsley flakes and ½ teaspoon garlic powder. Heat until it bubbles and serve liberally over hot spaghetti.

Leftover Roast*Beef Use Suggested

How to use Sunday's leftover roast beef? Cut in small cubes and mix with lightly cooked carrots and peas and a can of sliced mushrooms.

Season as you like and moisten with leftover natural gravy. Heat and serve with grated Parmesan or Romano cheese.

Pineapple Calories

A large slice of (canned) pineapple plus two tablespoons of the syrup contains 95 calories.

Meat Specials Offered, Fish Will Be Plentiful

By The Associated Press

A bewildering variety of meat specials awaits weekend shoppers in the nation's supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores. Housewives can take comfort, however, from a still-lengthy list of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Pending expected lower prices for beef and pork, features this week include such unusual items as rabbits, rock Cornish game hens, Long Island ducklings and the like.

A few stores offer smoked ham or turkey, but old standbys such as sirloin steak, chuck roast, leg of lamb and frying chickens are comparatively rare. Sausage meat is on the bargain list in some places.

The U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries looks for a generally high level of supplies of fresh and frozen fish and shellfish this month. Shellfish should be in good supply.

Several varieties of cheese are in good supply now. Many of the famous foreign types of cheese now are manufactured in this country under scientifically controlled conditions.

Egg prices are off 2 to 10 cents a dozen in many places.

Best bets in vegetable bins are cabbage, potatoes, endive, escarole, peppers, spinach, tomatoes (especially the plum type), Brussels sprouts, radishes, chard and the so-called cooking greens such as kohlrabi and kale. Celery, iceberg lettuce, sweet potatoes, snap beans, eggplant, cucumbers, squash and onions also are good buys.

Bartlett pears join apples on the best buy list among fruits. Prunes and Concord grapes are good buys.

Preserving Food

From earliest times the preservation of food has been of concern to man. Salting and sun drying were among the earliest methods of preservation.

Baked Eggs Varied

Don't forget shirred eggs for lunchtime. Eggs are easily baked in a slow oven and may be varied with cheese sauce, ham, vegetables, tomato sauce.

RECIPES WITH YOUTH APPEAL FOR LUNCHES AT HOME

Do your youngsters come home for lunch? It's so important to have a nutritious meal ready for them: Egg noodles and cheese are pleasant partners at any luncheon table and may be combined to make all sorts of flavorful dishes youngsters will truly like. For example, try this compatible combination of egg noodles and Swiss cheese in our Home-For-Lunch Noodles. If Dad lunches at home, this is a happy choice for him, too.

We suggest baking the egg noodles in individual casseroles as children and the idea of having their very own little casserole intriguing.

Home-For-Lunch Noodles

(Makes 4 servings)

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces medium egg noodles
(about 4 cups)
1 cup sour cream

1 cup grated Swiss cheese
(about 1/4 pound)
1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Combine noodles and remaining ingredients; mix thoroughly. Pour into greased individual casseroles. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350°) 15-20 minutes, or until thoroughly heated. Garnish with pimiento and parsley, as desired.

Our American Heritage:

Is Your First Course In A Rut?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Let's rescue our first courses from the doldrums. Serve something savory! If you once try this way of menu-making, the chances are you'll relegate the ubiquitous American fruit cup to the end of the meal. That's where it belongs, many epicures say.

We'd like to nominate that old-fashioned combination of marinated sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and onions for a first place in this new regime. This flavorful team has been served on American tables for years and years, but it has usually come with the meat.

When we gave it first place at dinner recently, we let it accompany bristling sardines and found this hors d'oeuvre was just the thing to tease appetites.

Pretty up the marinated vegetables on a platter, if that appeals to you. But we like this time-saving, dish-saving way. Put the vegetables and marinade into an attractive casserole; top the dish with its regular cover, and refrigerate. Just before serving, uncover it and bring it to the table sprinkled copiously with minced parsley.

Cold Tomato Casserole
Ingredients: 2 red-ripe medium-sized tomatoes (sliced), 1 medium-sized cucumber (pared and thinly sliced), 1 medium-sized sweet mild onion (thinly sliced after peeling and separated into rings), 1/4 cup olive or other salad oil, 2 tablespoons garlic-flavored red wine vinegar, 3/4 teaspoon salt, freshly-ground black pepper, minced parsley.

SUBBING FOR THE FRUIT CUP—If you agree with some epicures that it's time to relegate the ubiquitous fruit cup to the end of the meal, try this for a first course: marinated sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and onions.

Method: Alternate layers of tomatoes, cucumber and onion in a dish. Mix the oil, vinegar, salt and a dash of pepper together in a small container, shaking or beating with a fork. Pour over vegetables and chill, covered, for 6 to 8 hours. Cover with minced parsley.

Note: If you have fresh basil leaves at hand, wash and dry them; add 3 or 4 of the whole leaves along with each layer of vegetables. The basil tastes most delicious after it has stood in the marinade.

Classic Dish: Jellied Fish

A classic French fish dish is Filets de Sole Veronique—sole poached in white wine with white seedless grapes. For a delightful summer dish, the National Fisheries Institute has adapted the French recipe to make a cold jellied dish, for which any kind of white-fleshed fish filets may be used.

Jellied Fish Veronique
4 fish filets
Salt and pepper
1/2 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 teaspoons chopped onion
1/2 cup white wine
1 cup seedless white grapes

Wipe fish filets; sprinkle with salt and pepper and roll up. Sprinkle gelatin on water to soften. Melt butter or margarine in frying pan. Add onion and cook until soft. Place rolled fish filets in pan with open edge of roll down. Add wine and grapes. (If desired, in addition to the 1 cup grapes, add 2 small bunches of grapes to be used for garnish.) Bring wine to boil. Lower heat; cover skillet and cook gently 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Carefully remove fish and grapes to platter to chill. Add softened gelatin to liquid left in pan. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill gelatin sauce until slightly thickened. Arrange fish rolls and grapes on serving platter. Spoon slightly thickened sauce over fish and grapes, chill. Makes four servings.

The perfect accompaniment for salad served as the first course: crispy seeded crackers, cheese balls or cheese straws (made from leftover pastry).

Fruit-Nut Bars

Ingredients: 1/2 cup sifted cake flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup sifted confectioners sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter (melted), 1/2 cup seedless raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained, and then finely chopped), 1/2 cup pitted dates (cut in thin strips), 1/4 cup finely chopped pecans.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs until thick and pale yellow; add sugar, vanilla and melted butter; beat well. Fold in raisins, dates and pecans. Turn into buttered cake pan (9 by 9 by 1 1/2 inches). Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven 25 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Place pan on wire rack to cool; cut into bars; dust with extra confectioners sugar. Store in tightly covered container.

Cauliflower Casserole Makes Attractive Dish

A cauliflower casserole, sprinkled with a shredded wheat cereal topping, makes an attractive dish.

Cook: 1 large head cauliflower, broken into flowerets, until tender. Start oven at 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Crumble into fine shreds 12 spoon-size shredded wheat biscuits. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add the shredded cereal, 1/4 teaspoon onion salt, and 1/4 teaspoon thyme. In a saucepan mix 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Stir in 1/2 cup milk.

Cook: over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture has thickened. Beat 1 egg yolk until bubbly. Add a small amount of the hot mixture to the egg yolk and return to rest of mixture. Continue to cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Place cauliflower in greased shallow casserole. Spoon sauce over cauliflower and sprinkle with cereal mixture. Bake for 15 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Sounds are heard much easier in damp air than in dry air.

Small Fry Will Like This Treat

From your own soda fountain!

Graham Crackers

Chocolate Bananas Malted

Ingredients: 3 small or medium-sized fully ripe bananas, 3 tablespoons instant chocolate-flavored sweetened malted milk powder, 3 cups homogenized milk, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla.

Method: Bananas should be speckled with brown and not green at the tip. Peel bananas and mash fine with a fork. Add malted milk powder, milk and vanilla; beat well with rotary beater (hand or electric). Makes 4 medium-sized servings. Most small fry do not like very cold drinks so serve this as is; for oldersters pour each serving over an ice cube.

Note: If you have an electric blender make this drink in two batches, adding half of all the ingredients at one time. Run blender until mixture is smooth each time.

Mystery Banana
Peel banana and scrape off any "strings" with a case knife. Slice the banana in half lengthwise. Spread room temperature peanut butter over one cut surface; press the other half of the banana firmly over the peanut butter. Now cut crosswise in slices thick enough for youngsters to pick up and eat out of hand. Small fry usually think the striped effect is mysterious; will want to make a mystery banana by themselves.

Pancake Menagerie
When I was young "pancakes for lunch" were a great treat. (Usually they were prefaced by a vegetable soup, and a dessert would be fruit.) The pancakes might be a special sort made with cottage cheese. Or they might be the good old plain variety served with maple syrup or honey, jam or jelly and butter.

Half a dozen years or so ago a friend showed us how to make "animals" with pancake batter and since that time a good many families (have been concocting menageries enthusiastically. If these edible zoos are new to you, here are directions:

Clown-Lunch Plate
The clown's face is made from scrambled eggs—preferably two eggs, though if you spread the face thin, you can get away with one. (If you're feeding two youngsters, you might use three eggs for two clown faces.) One slice of crisply fried or broiled bacon will make the eyes, nose and mouth. A slice of toast spread with peanut butter and cut into one large and two small triangles will make the clown's hat and bow tie. Two carrot curls are perfect ears and big enough to hear anything that's going on.

Covered Wagon
Make a peanut butter sandwich and cut it in half. Stack the

Recipe Given For French Dressing

Human beings have always been concerned about ill or imaginary ill. As medical science has recognized the causes of many diseases, information and misinformation have become conversational topics of interest to the general public.

Many years ago, after the appendix was found to be the cause of certain serious intestinal disorders, appendicitis became a fashionable disease. Any digestive upset was suspected, and sometimes justly, as a symptom of appendicitis. There is less discussion nowadays, as a regular physical checkup gives us the facts.

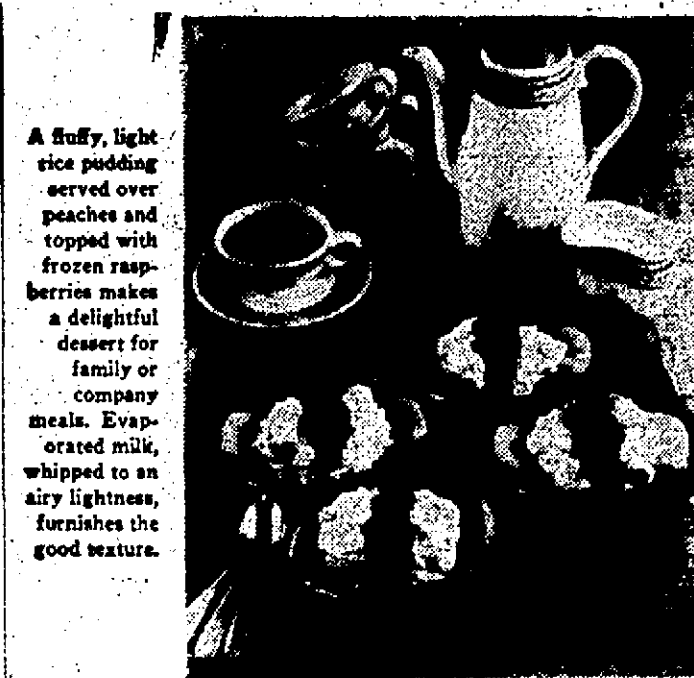

The popular bugaboo of today is cholesterol. This is suspected of affecting various types of what we call heart disease. There is no doubt that fat and its cholesterol content must be limited if any type of heart disease has been identified. When our organs are in good working order, cholesterol is not a significant factor. When they are not functioning well, cholesterol may be deposited in the arteries.

Vegetable oils contain fatty acids in varying amounts. While all oils have not been studied, much work has been done on corn oil which, in some cases, has actually lowered blood cholesterol. This can be used in the regular diet as in salad dressing and as shortening.

New margarine made entirely of corn oil is being sold, surprisingly enough, in drugstores.

French Dressing
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup corn oil
2 tablespoons mild vinegar
1 teaspoon onion juice
Mix dry ingredients thoroughly, add oil and stir until well blended. Add vinegar and onion juice, and beat or shake well until mixture thickens slightly. Beat or shake well just before serving. Yield—About a half cup.

LIGHT TEXTURE AND GOOD FLAVOR MAKE RICE PUDDING POPULAR

For a heavenly dessert with a cost that's down to earth, try this Heavenly Peach Rice Pudding. Its basis is whipped evaporated milk. Cold cooked rice, marshmallows and nuts are folded into the whipped milk, then served over peaches and topped with a raspberry sauce. The result is light, delicious and costs about half the amount spent for ordinary rice puddings made with whipped cream.

The secret of evaporated milk's whipping properties is its double strength. It's fresh milk that's had half the water removed leaving all milk's nutrients... vitamins, minerals and proteins. Thus, cup for cup, evaporated milk provides twice the nutrients of ordinary milk.

Try evaporated milk in soups, sauces and homemade ice creams. Its better blending qualities makes them smoother, creamier... and makes cooking faster and easier.

As a special treat for dinner tonight, try this Heavenly Peach Rice Pudding. It's easy to make and bound to be a hit with every member of the family.

Heavenly Peach Rice Pudding (Makes 6 servings)

1 1/2 cups cold cooked rice
1 1/2 cups dried marshmallows
1/2 cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
6 canned peach halves, cut in half
1 1/4 cups undrained thawed frozen raspberries (one 10-ounce package)

Mix rice, marshmallows and almonds in bowl. Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges of tray (15-20 minutes). Whip until stiff (about 1 minute). Add lemon juice and whip very stiff (about 2 minutes longer). Beat in sugar. Fold whipped evaporated milk into rice mixture. Arrange peaches in serving dishes and spoon rice mixture over peaches. Serve topped with raspberries.

Try Mexican Beef Stew

Small boys have even been known to send comic books flying and come first time they're called—when they know there is a stew for dinner. A kettle of juicy Mexican Beef Stew has more than flavor to recommend it. It's a meal-in-one dish, easy to prepare and cook, and kind to the budget.

Little flavor accents change ordinary stews into extraordinary dishes. There's almost no end to the variety of vegetables, or seasonings and liquids that will add a different flavor to stew. Tomatoes, green pepper, ripe olives and chili powder combine with juicy beef to give a "south of the border" accent.

Serve Mexican Beef Stew on noodles, with tossed salads, fresh fruit, and big mugs of coffee. Your family will love it!

Mexican Beef Stew

2 pounds boneless beef chuck, cut into 1-inch cubes.
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard
1 clove garlic, minced
1 (No. 2) can tomatoes
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3 drops Tabasco sauce
1 small green pepper, diced
1/4 cup ripe olives, sliced
Coat beef cubes with flour combined with salt and pepper and brown on all sides in hot lard in heavy kettle. Add minced garlic, tomatoes, chili powder, Worcestershire sauce and Tabasco to meat.

Cover and simmer for 1 1/2 to 2 hours, until meat is tender. Add the green pepper and ripe olives for the last half hour of cooking time. Serve over noodles.

Makes six servings.

When you iron embroidered table linens or children's clothes, place the embroidered part face down on a soft fluffy towel; this will make the pattern stand out.

Add Sour Cream To Canned Soup

Sour cream can do marvelous things with soups. Canned soups will seem infinitely more elegant if you float a dollop of sour cream on the top. A package of dried onion soup mixed with a pint of sour cream makes a perfect party dip. The sour cream container with the metal lid keeps its shape and preserves the pristine flavor of the sour cream through innumerable midnight snack raids on it.

No String Beans

Nowadays the words "string beans" are a misnomer; modern varieties of snap beans have no strings.

Serve It Quickly

Serve whipped evaporated milk shortly after it's been beaten because it does not hold up well.

Flour, spread in a thin layer in a shallow pan, may be browned in a hot oven if it is stirred often. The browned flour is excellent to use in meat and poultry gravies.

Never use hot water from the tap in making tea or drip coffee. Start with cold water and bring it to a boil before preparing the beverages.

Beall Orders Score Board At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Dr. Wayne Hill, principal of Beall High School, has announced that a score board to cost over $1,500 has been ordered for the athletic field and is expected to be here and installed within the next two weeks.

Dr. Hill stated that the board, measuring 18 feet by 11 feet, was ordered from the All American Scoreboard Company and will be erected at the north end of the stadium by Booster Club members.

Thus far the following has been accounted for: Alumni Association, $300 and the Board of Education $300 from the county stadium fund. Miss Peggy O'Neal, class of 1958, won recognition in an All-American Girl contest sponsored by the All-American Scoreboard Company and for this honor the school will receive $800 towards the board. The Longene-Whitner Watch Company will also pay $100 for the privilege of having their name on the face of the clock.

The balance of the money is being raised by the football booster club with William Shuck, president. At present a membership campaign is being conducted by the club.

Dr. Hill has been notified by the Georgia-Pacific Corporation, manufacturers of Redwood lumber products, that an educational exhibit about the California Redwood will be shown around the nation. The exhibit, called "The Redwood Show," left Eureka, Calif., last March on the first leg of its tour.

Basically the "show" consists of a small Redwood log carried on a truck and trailer. This log from the timber reserves of Northern California is eight feet in diameter, 20 feet long, over 1,500 years old and weighs over 60,000 pounds. It came from a tree more than 250 feet tall.

In most instances the "show" will simply pass through cities and towns, and will be set up completely in only the larger populated centers. According to the schedule it will pass through Frostburg October 24 at 7 p. m., and will be set up in Cumberland for display Saturday from 10 a. m. until 6 p. m.

Two Keyser High Students To Vie In Merit Contest

KEYSER—Principal Parker C. Black of Keyser High School announced yesterday that two local students have been named semi-finalists in the 1958-59 National Merit Scholarship competition. They are Miss Joy Suter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy M. Suter, and Robert Ludwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Galen Ludwick.

The local students are among 10,000 of the highest scorers on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, the nationwide test of educational development given in over 14,000 high schools last April 29.

The semi-finalists named yesterday outscored over 479,000 classmates and thus moved a step closer to an estimated $5 million in merit scholarships to be awarded in the 1958-59 program. The group of 10,000 semi-finalists is composed of the highest scorers in each state, prorated according to state population.

Miss Suter is vice president of the Future Business Leaders of America, treasurer and recorder of the Science Club, a member of the Thespians and the Methodist Youth Fellowship. Ludwick attends the White Pine Brethren Church.

Keyser High School has consistently had students among the semi-finalists for the past five or six years.

The students now face another rigorous three-hour examination, the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board, which will further substantiate their high scores on the NMSQT. This second test will be given in testing centers throughout the United States December 6. Those who repeat their high scores on this second test will become finalists in the competition.

John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, which conducts the annual program, predicts that over 95 per cent of the semi-finalists will get past the second hurdle and become finalists. About May 1 at least 735 fortunate young people will be named "Merit Scholars of 1959."

Each merit scholarship is a four-year award covering the four undergraduate college years, and each award carries a stipend tailored to the need of the individual winner. The stipends have been averaging about $650 a year. Minimum awards for students who have been determined to have no financial need, are $100 a year, and maximum awards, for students who have been determined to have maximum need, are $1,500 a year.

Merit scholars make their own choice of college and are free to choose any course of study leading to one of the usual baccalaureate degrees.

Seeds of the Canada thistle will live as long as 20 years.

Shepherd College Homecoming Set For October 17

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. — The annual Shepherd College homecoming is scheduled for October 17 with a chicken barbecue being one of the events on the calendar.

Frantz Taylor, agricultural agent of Berkeley County, is assisting in the preparation of the barbecue which will be held outdoors if weather permits. In case of rain or cold weather, tables will be available in the cafeteria and Science Hall. The pit will be constructed near these two buildings.

The crowning of the homecoming queen will take place after the barbecue dinner and just before the football game with West Virginia Tech. Formerly the queen was crowned at half-time, but it has always been a rush. The new plans will enable her to reign over the entire game from her throne built upon President Ikenberry's lawn.

Friday night there will be a winner roast and bonfire on the hill overlooking the Potomac. A house will follow which will culminate into a dance on the newly hard-topped tennis courts.

Reservations and remittance for the barbecue must be made by October 12.

Church Event Is Scheduled

KEYSER — Ground breaking ceremonies for the new Faith Baptist Church on West Piedmont Street, will be held Saturday at 11:15 a. m., according to Rev. Paul Jones, pastor, who will be assisted by Rev. Bernard Rollins.

The church, which was organized here in 1956, is now housed in the building formerly occupied by Pat's Restaurant at 75 West Piedmont Street. The new one-story concrete block building, measuring 22 by 65 feet, will be built around the present structure and, when nearly completed, the old building will be dismantled.

Actual work on the new church will commence Monday with people of the congregation donating their time to help build it. Donations to the building fund, time or materials will be accepted by calling Rev. Jones at SU 4-6831.

Rev. Jones said parishioners hope to be in their new building by Christmas.

Report Given
An unusual September was reported yesterday from statistics compiled by D. A. Arnold, veteran government weather observer of some 20 years service prior to his illness which has confined him to Potomac Valley Hospital, where today his condition was listed as still serious.

There were 21 fair days and nine cloudy or partly cloudy days last month with a high of 90 degrees on the September 6 and September 26 and a low of 40 degrees on September 29. ### Mineral Area Demos Plan Keyser Meet

KEYSER—Mineral County Democrats, who launched an organized campaign here with the appearance of U. S. Senator Wayne Morris of Oregon at a dinner and rally, are planning another mass meeting for Monday in the Court House.

According to Charles A. Millar, chairman of the Mineral County Democratic Executive Committee, the guest speaker at this rally, along with local candidates, will be Robert C. Byrd of Raleigh County, candidate for United States Senate. Byrd did not attend the last rally here as he was speaking to the Daughters of the Confederacy at Beckley by previous appointment.

Millar said that the Democratic women of Mineral County, with Mrs. I. W. Matlock of Keyser as president, has been active in the campaign this year, and are the source of much encouragement to the executive committee and the candidates.

Millar also praised the work of committee members in the several parts of Mineral County. The committee includes Mayor Charles Fryor, Ridgeley; Lona Gift and Paul Dorsey, Keyser; Early Martin, Antioch; Mary Rexrode, Burlington; Earl F. Pritt, Shaw; Guy C. Adams and Mrs. Hilley Fleck, both of RD, Keyser; Mrs. Stella Carey and George Harr of Piedmont.

The county Democrats are making an effort to elect two local candidates as well as district, state and federal nominees. Millar noted. Two men seeking local office, George E. Barger, candidate for the House of Delegates and Paul Alamog, candidate for county commissioner.

Other Democratic candidates are Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd for U. S. Senate; Harry Stagers, re-election to the House of Representatives; Thornton G. Berry and Harlan C. Calhoun, Supreme Court of Appeals; Joseph E. Burdett, secretary of state, and Clarence E. Martin, State Senate from the fourteenth district.

This year, West Virginians must elect two United States Senators. One will fill an unexpired term created by the death of the late Sen. Matthew M. Neely and the other for a full six-year term.

Two Supreme Court judges will also be elected. One is for a two-year term to fill a vacancy and the other for a full six-year term.

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Authorities continued today their investigation into the death of Mrs. Maxine Heiser, 26-year-old mother of two children, who died of gunshot wounds Tuesday.

Leonard Walker, 54, a construction worker who boarded at the Heiser home, was questioned along with the woman's husband, George, and their five-year-old daughter, Barbara.

James Litman, brother of the dead woman, told newsmen his sister had been in ill health and that he feared she might try to kill herself.

Haney's Game All Way Says Warren Spahn

By JOE REICHLER
MILWAUKEE (AP) — "This was the manager's game. He won it just as much as any of the players did. It was the skipper's game all the way."

This was Warren Spahn's clubhouse tribute to Manager Fred Haney's shrewd direction of Wednesday's opening World Series game, won by the Milwaukee Braves over the New York Yankees 4-3 in 10 innings.

Spahn gained credit for the triumph. Billy Bruton drove in the winning run. Joe Adcock ignited the winning rally with a hit to center. And Del Crandall kept the rally alive with a two-out single over second.

Masterminds All Way
But Fred Haney was in there masterminding all the way.

There were at least five times when Haney had to make a crucial decision. He made the right one each time.

Why did he let Spahn bat in the seventh with the Yankees leading 3-2 and Whitey Ford, their ace southpaw, on the mound?

"I know my own men," Haney said simply. "I have faith in Spahn. We had three innings to get a run for him. I knew if we did he would hold them off the rest of the way. He's my best and I wanted to continue going with my best."

Why did he order Henry Aaron to swing away instead of sacrificing with a runner on first, no body out in the eighth and the Yankees still ahead 3-2? Aaron doubled the runner, Eddie Mathews, to third and Wes Covington came through with the long fly that produced the tying run.

"Aaron has won me ball games with the long ball," Haney replied. "I don't think he's won me a game in three years with a bunt. If I had Aaron bunt, it would have given Casey Stengel (New York manager) an opportunity to walk Covington. They would have two right-handed hitters facing (Rhyne) Duren, a right-handed pitcher."

Sticks With Adcock
Why didn't he send in Frank Torre, a left-handed hitter to swing for the right-handed Joe Adcock, with runners on second and third, Duren on the mound and the Yankees' 3-2 lead in jeopardy? Adcock struck out but, kept in the game, he came through with the big hit in the 10th.

"I figured if Adcock had been on the bench, I'd have sent him in as a pinch hitter in that spot," Fred explained. "So why take him out? Besides, I wanted to save Torre for a more advantageous spot later in the game."

Why did he do just the opposite an inning later, when he sent up Bruton, a left-handed hitter, to bat for Andy Pafko, a right-handed hitter, against Duren? Bruton fanned.

"Andy gave me 100 per cent out there today," Fred said. "But he is no longer a youngster. I have to watch him to a point where I can keep him at his top physical condition. He was getting tired. It's a long series. I need him."

Why didn't he replace slow-moving Adcock at first base in the 10th with the smoother-fielding Torre after Frank had batted for Johnny Logan in the ninth?

"If I had done that, it meant that Felix Mantilla, who replaced Logan at short, would have been my second hitter in the 10th instead of Adcock. Who would you rather have hitting for you at that rate... Mantilla or Adcock?"

Tech WVIC Grid Leader

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Tech has taken the lead in three statistical departments of the State Conference and is second in another, league secretary George Springer said today.

Tech, also the early leader in the conference standings with two wins against no defeats.

Springer said the Golden Bears lead in rushing, rushing defense and total defense and are second in total offense.

The Bears also claim the two top individual offensive players. Blair Weese has scored six touchdowns for a big lead in scoring with 36 points. He also leads in rushing yardage with 204 yards. Teammate Bob Young is second in rushing with 189 yards.

Tech has rushed for an average of 263.6 yards to second place. Bluefield State's 220.5 Davis & Elkins with 77 yards passing in its only game leads in the aerial yardage average department. Bluefield is first in total offense at 283.5 yards.

On defense Tech has limited three opponents to an average of 44 yards rushing and 26 yards passing for a total prevention average of 70 yards. West Liberty is a distant second in total defense with 120.5 yards.

Three Braves Fan, Then Sock Single

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Joe Adcock, Del Crandall and Billy Bruton struck out the first time they faced relief pitcher Ryne Duren in the World Series opener Wednesday.

But their second time up against him was different. They singled in that order in the 10th to account for the winning run. Milwaukee's 4-3 victory over the Yankees.

Yanks Now Rated Underdogs In World Series

Braves Grab Opener, 4-3; Burdette To Hurl Today

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Two strong-armed right-handers, Lew Burdette, the hero of last year's Milwaukee victory, and Bob Turley, who fires bullets from his no-windup delivery, square off today with the underdog Yankees trying to even the World Series at one game each.

The weatherman promised the temperature would rise into the 60s but cautioned against possible showers during the afternoon. In the event of rain, Charles Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball who is acting for ailing Commissioner Ford Frick, has sole authority to order a postponement.

The odds-makers, backing Burdette, who beat the Yankees three times in 1957, made the Braves 11-10 favorites to win today's game and 6-5 to take the Series. Before Warren Spahn whipped the American Leaguers, 4-3, in 10 innings Wednesday, the Yankees had been favored for the Series, 13-10.

Laugh At Odds

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves had laughed at those pre-Series odds. Today, Casey Stengel, the skipper of the Yankees, was laughing at them.

"I'm going with the guy who won the pennant for me," explained Stengel. "He'll get us even. I don't worry about odds."

Burdette has a string of 24 1-3 scoreless innings going for him in Series competition — 5 1-3 short of the record 29 2-3 scoreless innings which the late Babe Ruth set as a southpaw pitcher for the Boston Red Sox before he was sold to the Yankees and transformed into an outfielder and the greatest home run hitter of all time. Also ahead of Burdette is Christy Mathewson's string of 28 1-3 shutout ninnings in 1905 and 1911.

Battle of Pitchers

Off to a slow start in the spring, Burdette wound up winning 20 games for the Braves while losing 10.

Turley, who discarded a windup because "it gives me better control," won 21 games for the Yankees while losing but 7.

So the second game of the Series promised to be a duel of right-handers, just as Wednesday's first game was a battle of southpaws.

Burdette beat the Yankees, 4-2, in the second game last year, then hurled two shutouts at them — 1-0 over Whitey Ford in the fifth game and 3-0 over Don Larsen in the seventh and deciding game.

Turley won the sixth game for the Yankees to even the Series — his only victory in Series competition.

Their pitching styles are in sharp contrast. Burdette, whom many National League clubs accuse of throwing a "spitter," uses sliders and sinkers to baffie the hitters. Turley relies, for the most part, on a fast ball.

Lineups Changed

In his attempt to "get even," Stengel was expected to make some lineup changes. Norm Siebern, who bats left-handed, was expected to start in left field instead of the right-handed hitting Elston Howard. And catcher Yogi Berra was expected to replace Howard in the cleanup spot in the Yankee batting order.

Despite his ailing knee, lefty-hitting Billy Bruton was expected to get the call over the veteran Andy Pafko in center field for the Braves.

Despite the not-too-favorable weather forecast, today's crowd was expected to equal Wednesday's 46,367 fans who jammed County Stadium to capacity.

After today's game the clubs will go to New York, where the third game is scheduled for Saturday. Friday is an off day for travel.

Ryne Duren Zigged, Should Have Tagged

By JERRY LISKA

MILWAUKEE (AP) — If Wednesday's opening World Series game had a turning point, it was when New York reliever Ryne Duren started to zig when he should have zagged.

Bill Bruton, the Milwaukee Braves' "substitute" player, struck out on a streaking fast ball pitched by Duren in the ninth inning of the World Series opener.

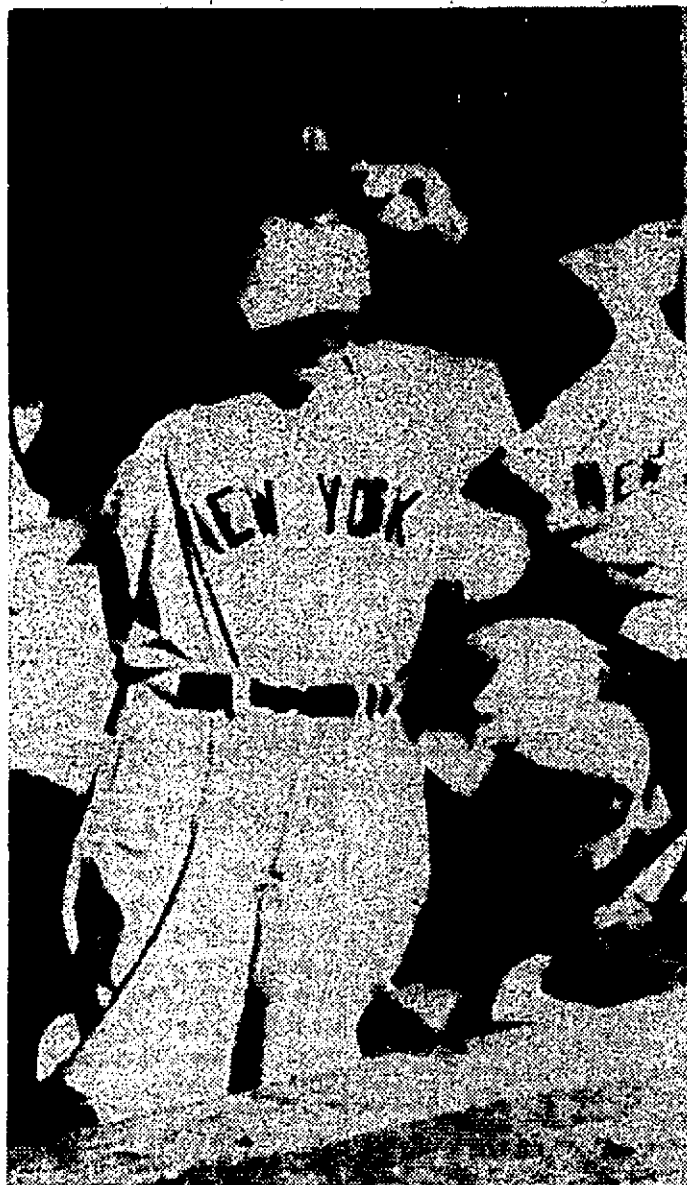

Bruton slams single. But the next time around, in the 10th inning, Bruton slapped a sizzling game-winning single — it could have been a double or triple to the fence in right center.

That gave the Braves and hero Joe Adcock a 4-3 triumph in a stubbornly-fought contest before 46,367 patrons.

Bruton said in the dressing room: "Duren struck me out on a low fast ball when I went up for Andy Pafko in the ninth."

"But the next time I faced Duren, I knew he would come in with a fast ball — that's all he was throwing. This time, it was high enough and I met it square, and that was that."

"When he (Duren) struck me out in the ninth," said Bruton, "it was on a low fast ball. He was on a low fast ball. He was on a low fast ball."

Bauer Pickoff Key Play Says Braves' Pilot

By TED SMITS

Associated Press Sports Editor
MILWAUKEE (AP) — What would have happened in the first World Series game if Hank Bauer hadn't been so eager in the first inning?

And what would have happened if Warren Spahn hadn't been waiting for just what Bauer did? Here was the picture:

Bauer, first up for the New York Yankees, rapped a single to left and thereby broke his own World Series record by hitting safely in 15 consecutive games.

Maybe that made him a little too careless. At any event, he took too wide a lead off first and Spahn, on the mound for the Milwaukee Braves, whipped the ball to Joe Adcock at first as Bauer, hopelessly trapped, bolted for second. Adcock threw to Johnny Logan and Bauer was out.

Then up came Gil McDougald, he singled through short. If Bauer had played it safe, this would have put him on second. Spahn uncorked a wild pitch, which would have put Yankees on second and third with none out. Mickey Mantle popped out to Del Crandall, but Elston Howard fled to center — and if Bauer had been on third he could have scored on the fly ball.

No Victory, Third Out

That would have meant a Yankee run, which could have meant that instead of the game being tied at 3-3 in the ninth, the Yankees would have been on top 4-3. Instead it was the third out.

What did the principals say? Bauer — "I was just caught running."

Spahn — "I felt beforehand the Yankees were going to try a running game and I believed I could cope with it."

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves — "Picking off Bauer was the key play of the game."

And so the game, which began in a rather leisurely, sloppy fashion, wound up in a tense 10th-inning drama that was decided by Billy Bruton's slashing hit to right center scoring Adcock with the run that made it 4-3 for the Milwaukee Braves.

Espie, Evans Play In Senior Round

PIERRE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Defending champion J. Clark Espie of Indianapolis and Chick Evans Jr. of Chicago tangled in the third round of the National Seniors Golf tournament today in the most important match of the competition to date.

Both were impressive in their previous rounds, shooting par or near-par golf every day.

Wednesday the 68-year-old Evans, two-time former National Amateur champion, was even par on the tight Monterey Peninsula Club course in turning back Walter Barnes, Rockford, Ill., 5 and 4.

The steady Espie, who is medalist in this event, was only one over par in winning his second-round match from Charles Williams, San Jose, Calif., 5 and 4.

Favorite Johnny Dawson of Los Angeles, who just became eligible to compete in the Seniors this year, tangles with Harold Ryder, Siasconset, Mass. Dawson was two over par Wednesday as he coasted to a 5 and 4 win over Calvin McCarthy, Peabody, Mass.

The American Hockey League schedule comprises 210 games this season. The season ends March 22.

Bill Bruton, Spahn First-Game Heroes

By RAY DOHERTY
United Press International

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Outfielder Billy Bruton, still bothered by the bad knee that kept him out of last year's World Series, teamed up with veteran Warren Spahn to give the Milwaukee Braves a 4-3, 10-inning victory in the first game of this year's classic.

Bruton singled sharply to right center to score Joe Adcock with the run that gave the Braves a victory before 46,367 fans.

Third Hit Off Duren

It was the third hit in that inning off the speed-balling Ryne Duren, who was called to the rescue of the Yankees' star southpaw, Whitey Ford, in the eighth.

Adcock got the Braves started with one out in the 10th with a single to right.

Duren got Wes Covington to fly out but Del Crandall singled to center and the middle sending Adcock to second. Then up came Bruton, who didn't get into the game until the ninth when he batted for Andy Pafko and fanned. The slender outfielder fouled off one pitch, took a ball, then connected with a Duren fast ball for his winning hit.

Tie Game In Eighth

Duren also was on the mound when the Braves behind 3-2, tied the game in the eighth.

Ford was lifted after Eddie Mathews walked and Hank Aaron doubled with none out. Duren struck out Adcock on five pitches.

Manager Casey Stengel went to the mound and after a brief chat it was decided to pitch to the left-handed hitting Covington.

Duren got two strikes past him before Covington hit a high fly to Mickey Mantle that enabled Mathews to score after the catch.

The Yankees got the lead first in the fourth inning when Bill Skowron homered.

Braves Bounce Back

Milwaukee came right back at the bottom of the fourth. With two out and Aaron on second because of a walk and passed ball, Crandall singled to score Aaron. Pafko drove one through the middle for another safety and Spahn did likewise to score Crandall and put the Braves ahead, 2-1.

Hank Bauer, who extended his hitting streak to 15 games with two hits, honored after Ford's walk in the fifth to put New York in front, 3-2. But then the Braves' eighth and finally that decisive 10th.

With a double and a single in four trips, Yogi Berra appears well on his way toward another good series. In his last four, Yogi has hit .429, .417, .360 and .320.

The crowd of 46,367 was larger than any which saw the three series games in Milwaukee last year.

Wayne Boor New Cage Coach At Fort Hill High

Wayne Boor, junior varsity coach last season, was named head basketball coach at Fort Hill High School to succeed "Bobby" Cavanaugh who retired at the end of last season after 30 years as tutor of Fort Hill and Penn Avenue teams.

Boor, a graduate of Keyser High, was an all-round athlete for the Tornadoes and also played football at Potomac State College, Mississippi State and the University of Tulsa in Oklahoma.

He has been assistant football coach at Fort Hill the past several years and took over as JV cage mentor last season.

His previous varsity coaching experience came at Fort Ashby High in 1954 when he tutored the Eagles one season. Fort Ashby that year compiled a record of 12 wins and 11 setbacks overall while finishing sixth in the Potomac Valley Conference with a 7-8 log.

Boor replaced Bill McProuty as assistant football coach at Fort Hill in 1954 and also teaches social studies. At Fort Ashby he taught history and for two years was an instructor in driver education in Mineral County.

The new Sentinel mentor served with the 25th Division in Japan, the famed Tropic Lightning Division, and played on the division football team. After his discharge from service he continued his education at Mississippi State and the University of Tulsa where he also played football. He was graduated from Tulsa.

Boor, who was also a standout basketball player while attending Potomac State, played a season with the professional Old German cagers here.

He is the son of William "Willie" Boor, one-time Potomac State and Keyser Collegians professional star.

The new coach replaces Cavanaugh who has been the only basketball tutor at either Penn Avenue or Fort Hill. Cavanaugh, who will continue as baseball coach, last year wound up his career as the Sentinels won the city, county, WMIL, CVAL and state cage titles for 1957-58.

Where Is He Now? Curly Stebbins In Advertising

In the late Jock Sutherland's last year of coaching at Pittsburgh, 1938, he developed what came to be known as his "dream backfield." One of those great backs was Curly Stebbins. That team had an 8-2 record, not as glittering as the nine victories and a tie of the 1937 season but it was a great success for Stebbins in one respect. He had fumbled seven times against Fordham in '37, they should—but I threw mostly fast balls.

I don't know if they were looking for a lot of breaking stuff from me—it makes sense that on times against Fordham in '37, they should—but I threw mostly fast balls.

I wasn't trying to out-smart them particularly. It simply seemed to me that they were getting too far out in front of my fast ones.

The odd thing about it is that the two home runs hit off me came on breaking pitches. I threw a pretty good change-up to Bill Skowron in the fourth and he put it over the wall, then Hank Bauer picked on a screwball for that two-run homer he hit in the fifth.

Trying To Be Careful
I realize the Yankees got six of their eight hits off me during the first five innings, and the only Yankees catcher who is labeled logical reason I can offer is that as a notorious slugger of had I was trying to be a little too careful, I saw that wind blowing out to left field and I knew it could hurt.

So Yogi quipped to the hurler. "Throw me a few bad pitches, will ya?"

The commission said only teams with unbeaten records in class were being rated at this time. Later teams with a single loss will be added to the list as their rating averages approach the unbeaten.

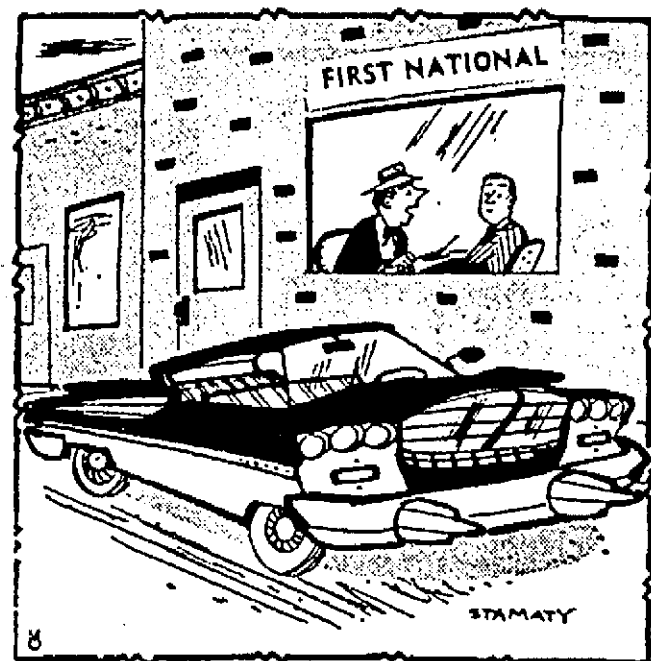

Yogi Wants Practice On Few Bad Pitches

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Batting practice is a time of fun and good-natured kidding — even at the World Series.

Yogi Berra, popular New York Yankee catcher who is labeled logical reason I can offer is that as a notorious slugger of had I was trying to be a little too careful, I saw that wind blowing out to left field and I knew it could hurt.

So Yogi quipped to the hurler. "Throw me a few bad pitches, will ya?"

Sound Bidding In Champ Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

In modern expert bidding the two-heart response to an opening one-spade bid guarantees a decent hand and either a five-card or longer suit or good spade support.

ceedings with three diamonds. He knew that Sidney would not pass this bid.

Sidney's three-spade bid, and Paul's four hearts were automatic and now Sidney made the key bid of the hand. He went to five clubs.

His reasoning was that Paul obviously could have jumped right to four hearts and instead had chosen to take time out for a three-diamond bid. Hence, Paul had to be interested in a slam.

This was enough for Paul. He bid the heart slam.

The play was simple enough. Sidney drew trumps and went after the spades. Dummy's fourth spade furnished a parking place for his losing club.

The hand represented no gain to the team. The opponents also got to six hearts and I imagine that most of you readers would get there also. It merely illustrates sound bidding and play, which is the way to win at bridge.

TOO PRETTY? — Miss Joan Marchesani, 20, had been dismissed from her ticket agent job with Pan American because her platinum-dyed hair, among other things, upset the New York office. She was subsequently rehired, but now the Air Transport Division of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks wants Pan American to admit that the girl was treated "unfairly."

West Virginia Jobless Fund Below Limit

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The drop of the State Unemployment Compensation Fund below $45,000,000 last week apparently will mean another boost in payments by West Virginia businessmen to the fund.

Benefit payments to the jobless amounted to $84,478, reducing the fund level to $44,932,065, the State Employment Security Department announced Tuesday.

Under an act of the Legislature during a special session last June employers' contributions are automatically boosted as of the end of the ensuing quarter for each $5,000,000 the fund drops below $60,000,000.

Two hikes will take effect for the second quarter of the current fiscal year starting today. The balance of the fund was below $55,000,000 when the law was enacted. The balance now has fallen two more levels since July 1, causing another two-step boost in employer payments effective Jan. 1.

Maximum contributions by employers, 2.7 per cent of their payrolls, will take effect during the current fiscal year if and when the fund balance drops to $35,000,000. After this year, the maximum rate will be imposed when the level drops to $40,000,000. Formerly, maximum rates were imposed when the fund dropped to $50,000,000.

Strike Threatens Plant In State

BALTIMORE (AP)—Some 1,500 United Auto Workers employees at General Motors' Fisher Body plant here prepared to walk out today over local grievances.

Albert J. Mattes, president of UAW Local 239 said the walkout was approved last night after local negotiations with plant management broke down. The same number of employees at the local Chevrolet division also threatened to strike today, but a last-ditch session with management over local issues was planned first.

Mattes said the walkout would not constitute a wildcat strike since local union officials first obtained approval from national UAW headquarters in Detroit.

Since the strike concerns local issues only, he said, developments at negotiating sessions in Detroit between national UAW leaders and General Motors will not affect the strike.

Mattes said the Fisher strike will continue until local management officials come up with some new proposals. He said the local issues include wage inequalities and seniority.

Congregation Marks Holiday

B'er Chayim Congregation is observing the Feast of Booths, a harvest festival which is a forerunner of the American Thanksgiving holiday.

Rabbi Max Selinger reports that the festive week ends with "Simchas Tora" meaning "Joy of Holy Scriptures" when the cycle of readings from the Five Books of Moses is completed with the last verses of Deuteronomy and immediately resumed with the beginning of Genesis.

Because of this new beginning, the new pupils who begin their religious school education are consecrated during the sabbath morning service of October 4, which is scheduled for 10:30 a. m. at B'er Chayim, according to David Sigel, president.

Pupils who will be consecrated are Jolly Jacobson, Susan Cohn, Doug Schwab, Chuck Schwab, Louis Bernstein, Michael Granel, Michael Waingold and Eddie Marks.
